Foreword

"We have obviated the friendly appearance here
but we trust that the spirit of honest workmanship, devout devotion to ideals and firm faith exhibited by the Monks of old will not seem alien to those Quakers who like them still search for the truth"

And Now Another Year . . . .

AND now another year has come—and gone, bringing with it improvements and growth, and leaving behind echoes of experiences old and new. The high-spots of the last twelve months come readily back to mind.

It's Spring and 1932. Meyer Davis' orchestra helps to introduce a brand new custom in the form of the first Spring Prom.

As proof of the growing tendency toward the "new and better," the restlessness of the co-eds in relation to the problems which women's fraternities present comes to a crisis in the decision to abandon fraternal activities for the ensuing year.

These revolutionary changes break forth in the sport realm as well. This time it's golf—just another step forward in the movement to keep our females lithe and supple.

The earliest attempt of our youngest at big-time stuff comes through in the form of the first Freshman Show to be held in Clothier. As usual, variety is the keynote of the performance.

Achievements—In connection with maintaining our publicity standard the recently formed L. I. D. chapter crashes through. Three of the rowdies actually attract enough notice to be arrested. A more remunerative effort is shown by four members of our track team who carry home from the Penn Relays a watch apiece in token of the one-mile championship.

Ye merrie month of May is ushered in with the proper celebration, this year a Robin Hood pageant. Every old-time character makes his appearance from the enthusiastic bugler who manages somehow to conquer Worth Tower, to the great white horse hired for the occasion.

Our beloved Seniors are rewarded according to merit for their four years' struggle; some merely receive a diploma; a few, scholastic awards at commencement; while the infamous are given affectionate tokens of esteem parceled out during class day exercises on Prexy's lawn.

Summer improvements noted include a rearrangement of the library to permit the library staff to enjoy a reasonable amount of quiet, a superfluous amount of yellow paint adorning renovated Parrish rooms, and the taking of initial steps in transforming Collection Hall into a recreation center.

Balcony

After welcoming back Prexy (the racing season at Agua Caliente having recently closed), school settles into a humdrum calm, to be punctuated by the announcement of the cessation of football relations with Penn; the squabble over early morning service at the post office, and our share in the celebration of the 300th anniversary of Penn's arrival at the site of our fair city.

The Hamburg Show comes along minus some of its old-time hilarity and distinctly fostering the more dignified and dramatic as is befitting to Clothier. Then the Chest Drive hits our book-bills with surprisingly successful results. To this we may attribute the hearty turnout in the oldest of clothes at the Hallowe'en Dance soon after.

The college enjoys many a hearty laugh during the entertaining talk which Louis Untermeyer gives over at the Meeting House. Later, Somerville brings to us another famous speaker, Edward Steichen, who lectures on photography.

The spotlight now turns to the big event of the Fall—election—with its accompanying rumors, predictions and betting. The only direct results to be felt at Swarthmore are the pitiful scene of two of our male students crawling down the asphaltum and the rumor that one of the boys has taken the betting so seriously that by cagey playing of the odds he has suffered but a $2 loss in contrast to the $12 loss which he would have incurred if Hoover had won.

The boys climax a successful season of Fall sports with a stirring victory over the girls' hockey team in that mad scramble, the annual Greek Gods game.

The new year brings in changes; a renovized and chisel-proof rushing plan is adopted by the men's interfraternity council; sedate upperclass girls are seen being ushered in the dining-room by lowly Freshman women—a part of the girls' student government plans; and outside help is quite successfully rendered at one of our fraternity initiations.

Phoenix circulation is booming, thanks to the bounty of letters being turned in by Swarthmore's most recent betterment group.

A long period of rest, relaxation and sunshine, the only remedy for Spring fever, follows, only to be unduly interrupted by mid-semester and subsequent agony. Here's to 1933!

History of the Junior Class

IT WAS in the Fall of the year, not so very long ago, that one hundred and fifty young people gathered together at Swarthmore College. They were to be known collectively as the Crew of '34, but individually each was also far famed for various accomplishments and established abilities. The crew had heard of the traditions of Swarthmore, and knew something of the demands which would probably be made upon them; a careful survey of the combined talents of the group was taken, and the Ship of '34 was launched.

A meeting was held, not long after the crew had gotten acquainted, for the election of officers. Jim Kelly was chosen captain for the first part of the voyage. Hilda Gruenberg, Ruth Hallowell and Jim Perkins were the helpmates during the first venture at sea. This group of officers guided the ship safely and carefully into its second port, where they resigned their positions to Bob Cadigan, Elizabeth Weaver, Louise Stubbs and Stokes Clement. They steered the course wisely and well, following their predecessors' excellent example, and Treasurer Clement kept close watch over the growing funds.

In April the women of the crew got together and decided that their "smooth sailing" ship should be immortalized in song. From this inspiration developed the most unified Freshman Show given up to that time. And the song, "Smooth Sailing," composed by Ellen Truax and sung by the principals in the play, Tal Lang, Eve Dotterer and Sally Antrim, is still loved and is constantly requested by all good Swarthmoreans.

At the end of the year the Crew of '34 looked back to view its progress during the first voyage with satisfaction. Mary Ann Miller had distinguished herself in the dramatic world. Among the prominent debaters were Bob Cadigan, Dick Hubler, Ben Moore, Frank Pierson and Jack Powell. The Engineers' Club included among its members such illustrious names as John Brod, Tink Baker, Super Zang and Bill Hagerman. Louise Stubbs took the musical honors in the chorus and orchestra. From an athletic point of view we find Johnny Abrams a Varsity man in basketball. Kay Lippincott was on the girls' swimming team; Judy Smith and Margy Wolman were both on the basketball squad. Stubby held a regular position on the hockey eleven.

In the Spring of the year the crew remembered a long-observed custom at Swarthmore, and decided that it was really a very good idea. They thus have the honor of holding the last Junior-Frosh picnic to date.

The satisfaction at the enjoyable and successful first cruise had barely been fully realized when notices came out that the crew should again assemble if they wished to go on the second voyage. With the exception of about twenty of its former members, the entire crew was again on hand, eager for the trip to start. This time their laurels had already been proved and they were able to assume a slightly superior attitude, due to their vast knowledge in the ways of the college world.

Treasurer Clement had been such a successful economist that he was elected captain of the crew. Beth Carver, Grace Biddle and Johnny Abrams were the other officers. The successes of the year are notable. Great dramatic talents were soon discovered and various members of the class, including the names of Cadigan, Dorothy Coleman, Hubler, Pat Gruenberg, William Simons, Dotterer, Bob Young, Fayerweather, Cliff Maser, John Prest, Lewine, Hubbell, Loeb, Kitty

Halcyon

Burnett, Weaver, Antrim, Lou Thomas and Mary Ann Miller, participated in the Little Theatre and Play Production work. Dave Preston and Jack Powell, Sally Antrim, Betty Shafer and Virginia Sutton maintained the debating honors. Cal Klopp succeeded in becoming assistant manager of the Glee Club and Dick Hubler assistant manager of debate. In Somerville work one finds the names of Nina Bowers and Marty Arnold. Reid McNeill became a member of the exclusive Trotter Biological Society.

In February the crew chose new officers. The success of the former "From Treasurer to President" campaign in the case of Toky Clement was further popularized when Abrams was chosen as the next president. Doris Lindeman, Mabel Clement and Davies Preston were the other leaders of the crew for the last half of their second voyage.

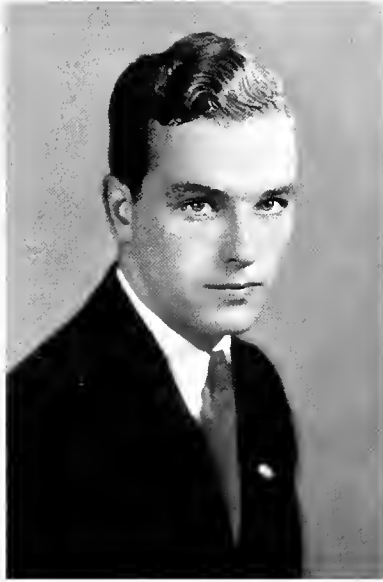

Varsity letter men and women for the year included an imposing list of names. In football, Abrams, Browning and Kelly; Ben Moore, Dean Caldwell, Frank Pierson and Jim Perkins were on the soccer team. Johnny Abrams was the only letterman from the crew in basketball and in baseball. In track Jim Kelly and Tom Casey took the honors. Among the women, Judy Smith, Stubby and Margaret Cresson were tennis stars. Stubby received her letter for basketball and shared the honors with Margy Wolman and Louise Cresson for hockey. Judy Smith was elected secretary of the Women's Athletic Association.

From a social point of view, mention must surely be made of two very excellent table parties which the crew gave as a group. They had, by this time, acquired the reputation of sticking pretty much together, but that is a characteristic of any good crew.

This October the third voyage of the crew was announced, and it has truly been the most momentous of all. The only regret that has been made is for the many members of the crew who have found it impossible to join their comrades and shipmates. Dave Preston was transferred from treasurer to president and the habit shows the excellent financiers who will indubitably emerge from the Crew of '34. Lo Marshall, Bugs Burton and Bob Young were help-mates for Captain Preston.

During the first two voyages the crew was slowly becoming accustomed to the traditions of college in general and of Swarthmore in particular. Now that they were at last upperclassmen the struggles were over and the positions of real responsibility had to be assumed. A HALCYON would have to go to press, edited by the members of the Junior Class, headed by Hubler; the major positions on the Phoenix were now open to ones of the crew who had shown ability and interest; the Little Theatre Club Seniors were looking around for the outstanding Juniors to carry on its traditions; and the whole school was beginning to realize that the Crew of '34 would be the main support of the college in work of all kinds. The sixth group of officers was chosen in February. Frank Pierson is the new captain, and Betty Seaman, Betsy Geddes and Bill Orr will head the ship to a safe landing after the third voyage is over.

The hard, consistent work of the crew as a whole has culminated in a success which is truly well earned. The posts of responsibility which they fill so ably are the combined result of ability and of careful preparation. And the theme song of "Smooth Sailing" has become a symbol of the gliding ship and the congenial crew. To its melodious strains may we wish the crew a pleasant voyage on their fourth and last together, and all the success in the world for the future.

JOHN ABRAMS

5445 Pine St., Philadelphia, Pa.

Interests: His Freshman year John played basketball and baseball; he added football to these when a Sophomore while becoming captain of baseball that same year. He has been elected president of his class as well as serving as class treasurer.

Sidelights: John's extra-curricular interests are mainly in athletics, and he is a mainstay of the teams. Moreover, he is a fine example of all-round development. Forget the adjectives—Lem has a personality.

FRANCES ALLEN

404 Eighth Ave., Riverton, N. J.

Interests: Fran's chief interest at school is practical psychology, but she gladly confesses that her greatest interest is a lawyer-to-be at Princeton. Her other enthusiasms are music and art. She is also a member of the French Club and of Gwimp.

Sidelights: The word thoughtful describes Fran well, not only thoughtful about serious questions, but also about other people and interested in their problems. She tackles life with contagious enthusiasm.

MARGARET ROSWITHA ANDERSON

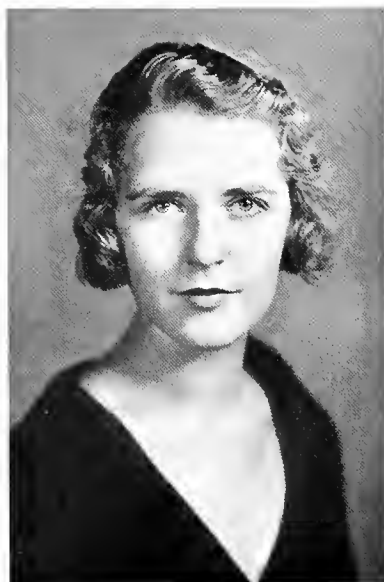

905 Castle Point Terrace, Hoboken, N. J.

Interests: When there is a German Club meeting, a German play, or any other German activity, Peggy is sure to be active in it, for she is the secretary of the club and loyally enthusiastic.

Sidelights: But Peggy has time for other activities, too. Her room in N Section is a regular center where her friends from Worth and Parrish flock to enjoy her humor and her psychological analysis of their problems.

SARAH DENNY ANTRIM

5811 Meek Rd., Worthington, Ohio

Interests: Sally is full of energy, which she devotes to such things as the business managership of both the Little Theatre Club and the 1934 HALCYON. She is on the swimming squad, too.

Sidelights: Sally has a knack for doing everything well. She is very businesslike and efficient and direct. Moreover, there is a quiet dignity about her, and a friendly manner which gives her an air of being really interested.

JOHN ARMSTRONG, JR.

235 Kenyon Ave., Swarthmore, Pa.

Interests: Jack is mainly interested in his major subject, political science, and spends most of his time in this field of study. However, he has entered dramatics on more than one occasion and has proven his possibilities in this direction.

Sidelights: Although seldom seen around the campus, Jack may invariably be found in the library, busy with his honors work. Quiet and naturally unassuming, he is capable and efficient in his work.

RICHARD E. HARPER

R. D. No. 2, Media, Pa.

Interests: Dick has played on the Jay-Vee lacrosse team and is now assistant manager of that sport. When a Sophomore he was secretary-treasurer of the Engineers' Club. This year he is vice-president of Swarthmore's branch of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers.

Sidelights: In recognition of Dick's interest in his hobby—operating an amateur radio station—he has been made president of the Radio Club for two years. His vocational aim is communication research and engineering.

LANDON G. HAYNES

135 Powell Rd., Springfield, Pa.

Interests: Landon made the wise decision of transferring from Haverford College. This year, consequently, he has not had time to get into the activities at Swarthmore. His chief interest here at college is philosophy.

Sidelights: Modest, amiable in manner, Landon is fitting in well with Swarthmore students. As a scholar he is among the best and as a friend he is better yet.

Philosophy Honors

MARION R. HIRST

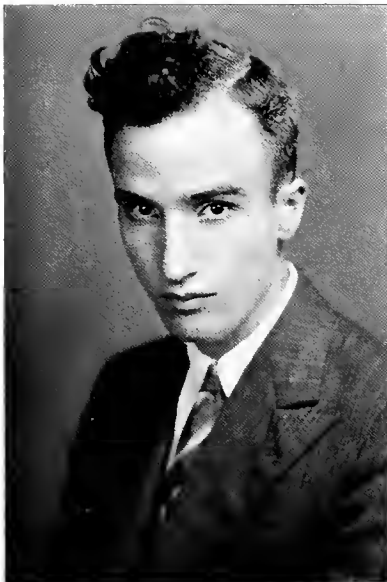

707 Main St., Riverton, N. J.

Interests: Marion may look tiny on a hockey field, especially in a Greek Gods game, but she is nevertheless right there as a Varsity player. She has a sensible and broadminded attitude toward politics, and knows her current events, too.

Sidelights: It is quite rare for a history major to be seen anywhere but hard at work; however, Marion is unhurried, and manages to be poised and self-possessed in spite of it all.

MARION BELLAMY HUBBELL

89 Sunset Ave., Verona, N. J.

Interests: We've been grappling with the temptation to say that this lady is the "hub" of the Phoenix, the philosophy department, and the Socialist Party. Diversions are rowing and mountain climbing in Summer, and in Winter she holds the college record for head stands.

Sidelights: But, to quote the other two members of Swarthmore's most famous trio, "beneath her noisy exterior lies a quiet heart." Under the delightful nonsense, Hub's sense of values is good to find.

RAYMOND MAX IMMERWAHR
3270 Lakeshore Drive, Chicago, Ill.

Interests: Raymond is deeply interested in music and has spent most of the time which others set aside for extra-curricular activities in studying various phases of that art. He plays the clarinet in the orchestra, and is especially familiar with symphonic music.

Sidelights: Raymond's consistently brilliant recitations in class would lead one to think that such performances would call for continual study, yet Ray does a great deal of swimming and hiking besides his music and books.

GEORGE S. SCHAIRER

40 Elm Lane, Bronxville, N. Y.

Interests: George is one of the crack engineers of Swarthmore; he is a member of Sigma Tau and received the prize offered by that society to the person holding the highest scholastic standing among the engineers.

Sidelights: George has been student auditor for the Chest Drive Committee during the past two years. He is a hard worker and in the field of research which he hopes to enter he should be an outstanding figure.

Engineering Honors

CLARA WARD SEABURY

420 North Euclid Ave., Oak Park, Ill.

Interests: Those who attended the Midwest tennis matches last Summer saw Claire in active participation. A glance into her room would tell you that she also possesses a flair for interior decoration capable of transforming even an unimproved Parrish residence into a charming room.

Sidelights: Claire goes at all her problems with a fixed intensity of interest, and is willing to stand by her decisions. She likes lovely things, and cultivates them in her life.

Fine Arts

ELIZABETH META SEAMAN

117 Maple Ave., Monroe, N. Y.

Interests: Betty's interests cover a wide range, all the way from being the secretary of the Student Conduct Committee to taking the part of Miss Stilz's pig in the 1930 Hamburg Show. She was also in the Freshman Show as a travelling co-ed.

Sidelights: Everyone who knows Betty considers her the best company in the world. She is vivacious and witty, and can also discuss more serious problems with a breadth of understanding.

Political Science

ELIZABETH FRANCES SHAFER

604 Roanoke Ave., Riverhead, N. Y.

Interests: Betty is a star debater for Swarthmore. Besides, she is one of the two busy people who officiate at property collecting for the Little Theatre Club, and she likes to play basketball. From the grades that she gets, she cannot conceal a real interest in her work.

Sidelights: Enthusiasm and capability are Betty's two outstanding characteristics. Such a combination assures that she can handle any number of jobs without difficulty.

History

Delta Zeta

GRACE SHELLEY

307 South Chester Rd., Swarthmore, Pa.

Interests: Grace loves to talk. From high pressure salesmanship in the book store to an intellectual dispute in French or history, she is right in her element. The results seem to indicate that she knows what she is talking about, too.

Sidelights: Grace is only with us part of the time, but she gets a lot done in a short time. Otherwise she couldn't skip off so gaily every afternoon.

French

WILLIAM W. SIMONS

19 East Stewart Ave., Lansdowne, Pa.

Interests: Bill is a day student who spends much of his time at college within the walls of Hicks. A fine engineering student, he is willing to do extra work for his teachers or friends. He entered the competition for tennis manager last year.

Sidelights: Bill takes a great interest in college dramatics, having appeared in some plays and never failing to attend a production. This boy is kindly and considerate in everything he does and is a true gentleman.

Engineering Honors

HARRIET EDITH SMEDLEY

5231 Webster St., Philadelphia, Pa.

Interests: Harriet is greatly interested in honors work and does admirably in it. But, in spite of our vow not to mention week-ends, we have to in this case! For Harriet's consuming interest is obviously connected with the weekly disappearing acts.

Sidelights: Her inimitable Philadelphia drawl and those uproariously funny things she can say with such a perfectly straight face, are only glimpses that we get here and there between her absences.

Social Science Honors

Phi Mu

Balcony

CHARLES HENRY STAUFFER

1516 North 2nd St., Harrisburg, Pa.

Interests: Charlie absolutely denied that he participated in anything, but his modesty is extreme. The fact that he is a member of Kwink proves that he has interested himself in one side of college life. We know that he has also devoted considerable time to the social side.

Sidelights: Regardless of what Charlie says, ask anybody on the campus who knows him (and there are very few who do not) and you'll find out that he is a fellow worth knowing and extremely popular.

Chemistry Honors      Phi Sigma Kappa

THOMAS N. STERN

Rose Tree Rd., Media, Pa.

Interests: Tom competed his first year for the editorship of the Phoenix. Since that time he has devoted himself largely to his studies and to interests outside of college. This year he has been a day student.

Sidelights: Wide-awake and well-informed, Tom has become a real student of political science and international relations. He appreciates art and good music, is a lover of nature and enjoys living.

Political Science Honors      Wharton Club

LOUISE REISSLER STUBBS

1340 East 40th St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Interests: Stubby was the only girl, last year, to receive three Varsity letters. She plays on the forward line in Varsity hockey, is on the basketball team, and is a brilliant tennis player. In between times, she serves on Student Government committees, and dances in Hamburg Shows.

Sidelights: Stubby looks a bit like a serious child, being tiny, with wide blue eyes and light hair. She is never discouraged, always happy and full of pep and wit.

English

Chi Omega

VIRGINIA HALL SUTTON

5601 Western Ave., Chevy Chase, D. C.

Interests: Ginny presides over the Classical Club with great dignity and exhibits the same effective calm when she is representing Swarthmore in one of the many debates. 2.8 averages come naturally to her.

Sidelights: All of this is the more remarkable when one remembers that Ginny was fabulously young when she entered college. But anyone so serene and purposeful was bound to get to whatever goal she might set for herself.

Humanities Honors

Delta Zeta

Balcyon

LUCINDA B. THOMAS

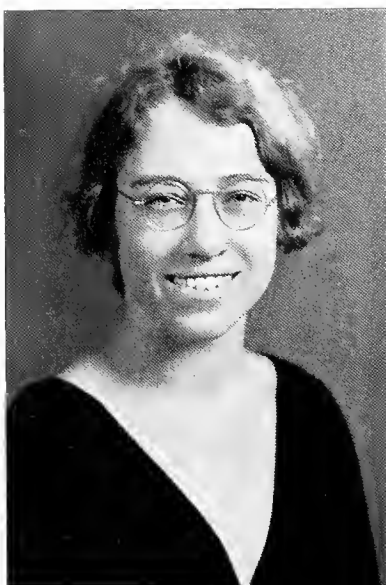

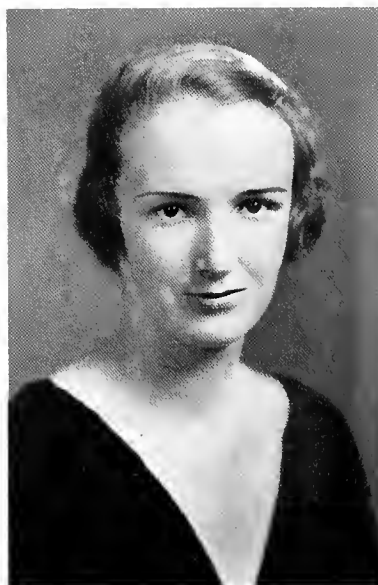

240 W. Tulpehocken St., Philadelphia

Interests: Lu holds down the job of fire captain, which we all agree is no cinch. She is also a member of Gwimp, and the secretary of Somerville. Athletics claim part of her time, for she is a member of the hockey squad. She coaches choruses for various shows.

Sidelights: Lu is very individual in both appearance and action. She has a gay, care-free manner, despite an air of sophistication and she is famous for her dancing.

English

Kappa Alpha Theta

MARTHA LEA TUFTS

63 Ridge Rd., Rutherford, N. J.

Interests: Having taken part in May Day and the Freshman Show her first year, Marty settled down to the more serious business of collecting money for the chest fund. In the meantime, she busied herself with chorus and class hockey.

Sidelights: She insists that it is her ability for heavy concentration which permits her to allot a minimum of time to studying and considerably more to swimming, Guy Lombardo, and her bridge playing.

Educational Psychology

Phi Mu

HELEN LOUISE VANTUYL

241 Congress Ave., Lansdowne, Pa.

Interests: Music and athletics are Helen's forte. She sings in the chorus, and loves all kinds of sports, from swimming to tennis. Another of her hobbies is Scout work, which occupies much of her summer vacation.

Sidelights: Jollity and good humor mark Helen as a good sport. She is always ready to "bull" about any subject whatsoever, and she loves nothing so much as a good sociable cup of tea.

Social Science Honors

WALTER AMERICO VELA

Quito, Ecuador

Interests: Walter is a candidate for both the soccer and the swimming teams; he is treasurer of the German Club, and the winner of the Library Prize for 1931-32.

Sidelights: Walter's experiences previous to his arrival here have made him a most interesting individual. He has hunted pumas in South America, studied in Europe for nine years, came to the United States and was the first sophomore admitted to honors work. Diplomatic service will be his vocation.

Economics Honors

ESTHER D. WALKER

Chadd's Ford Junction, Pa.

Interests: Esther's chief delight in life is poetry. She reads it, studies it, and above all, writes it. Closely connected with this is her love of music and her membership in the chorus. She also enjoys horseback riding.

Sidelights: It is chiefly characteristic of Esther that she does everything intensely. She works hard and plays hard. But when she isn't working, she is vivacious and quick at clever repartee.

English

JOAN WELLS

642 Edmonds Ave., Drexel Hill, Pa.

Interests: Joan has decided opinions of her own, and considerable skill in debating with which to defend them. She has a great liking for the theatre, and her pet aversions are puns and snow.

Sidelights: She is very intellectual—very, with the dignity which accompanies it. She is quiet and reserved. Joan and Hilda are one of the never-without-each-other pairs of the college campus.

Social Science Honors

CLIFTON B. WHITE, JR.

78 Croton Ave., Mt. Kisco, New York

Interests: Cliff caught up with the Junior Class after spending his first year at Yale University and has had no trouble in maintaining that position. He went out for basketball and lacrosse last year, is industrious and reliable.

Sidelights: With boats, swimming and fishing at his command, Cliff must spend active summers at Cape Cod—he knows sailing and has taken several interesting boat trips. In manner he is always considerate and obliging, sincere in his dealings with everyone.

Economics

Phi Kappa Psi

NED BLANCHARD WILLIAMS
719 Belmont Park, Dayton, Ohio

Interests: Ned is a pre-med. He has found time, however, for activities along other lines. In the Fall he helps manage football, in the winter he plays basketball, and in the Spring, lacrosse.

Sidelights: Ned is one of the most energetic fellows at Swarthmore. He is a member of Kwink and has earned his letter in lacrosse. Always jovial, a capable student, he has prospects of a bright future.

Physiology-Zoology

Delta Upsilon

FREDERICK E. WILLITS

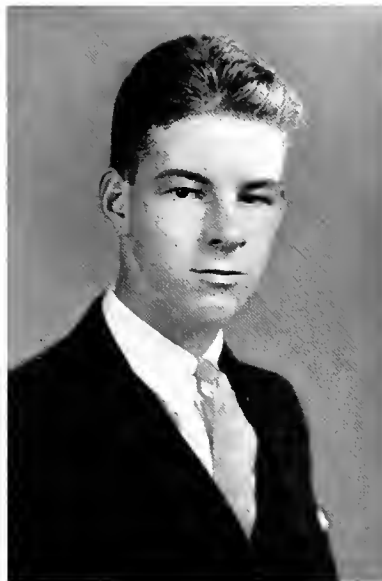

102 Duck Pond Rd., Glen Cove, L. I.

Interests: Fred insisted upon concealing his interests from us, but the facts that he is assistant manager of baseball (and also a Kwinker), business assistant on the Phoenix, and a member of the Interfraternity Council can not escape us. Form your own opinion.

Sidelights: Fred has been doing good work on the Publicity Committee and is fitting himself to be a newspaper man. His capacity for accomplishing work should bring success.

English

Theta Sigma Pi

ROBERT E. WORTH

St. Davids, Pa.

Interests: Bob started out to be an engineer but changed to English in his Junior year. He plays tennis and is particularly adept at contract bridge. His fondness for boat trips has led him to take some rather long sea voyages.

Sidelights: Bob likes people and in return is well liked by all. He is a fast-stepping dancer, a gentleman, and an all around good fellow.

English

Phi Kappa Psi

PORTER H. WRAY

540 Walnut Lane, Swarthmore, Pa.

Interests: Porter plays third base on the baseball varsity. Besides this activity he plays interfraternity basketball and touch football with an informal group in the fall.

Sidelights: Very friendly and amiable and always willing to do things for others. Porter is well-liked by all who come in contact with his quiet altruism. He is a good sport, has a fine sense of humor, and creates a pleasant atmosphere wherever he is.

Engineering Honors

Phi Kappa Psi

ROBERT A. YOUNG, JR.

345 Highland Ave., Lansdowne, Pa.

Interests: Bob received his football letter this year, and this Spring will make a strong bid for a regular position on the lacrosse team. He is a member of The Little Theater Club and has done commendable dramatic work during the last two years.

Sidelights: Quiet, friendly, and a conscientious worker, Bob holds the confidence and respect of all who know him. His natural unassuming leadership, his sticktoitiveness in upholding his own beliefs, together with his pleasant manner, make him admired and liked.

Fraternities

FRATERNITIES at Swarthmore have found the past year an interesting though perplexing period. Interesting in that a change regarding the position of fraternities in the social life of the college seems imminent; perplexing in that no one knows just what that change is going to be. The effort to alter fraternity organizations has resulted from the determination to remodel them so that they might be more adequate in fulfilling the social needs of students attending a school such as Swarthmore. This decision widened into a movement to develop a new program of social life on the campus—the new program has not been worked out in a complete or detailed form, but both administration officials and students, for the most part, agree on the fundamental principles on which it will rest.

First, that the structure of campus life at Swarthmore be designed in such a way that opportunity is given each student to lead a wholesome, well-balanced and normal social life. Any program that results in favoring a certain section of the student body and does not provide for the needs of the remaining students (even if those remaining are a definite minority in number) is not a satisfactory plan for a college such as Swarthmore.

Second, that the structure of campus life be designed in such a way that social relationships between the students are placed on as flexible and natural a basis as possible. A program that “institutionalizes friendships” and makes for rigid, mutually-exclusive associations has no place in a school of the liberal tendencies of Swarthmore.

And last, that the program of social life (referring to the phrase “social life” in this instance in its wider sense, thus including in its meaning those periods devoted to athletics and all extra-curricular activities, on the one hand, and, on the other, those periods given over to informal discussions and individual reflection) be set up alongside of and co-ordinated with the program of academic life in such a way that the one will not overbalance the other. The trend towards establishing “book-study” as the sole occupation of Swarthmore students must not go so far that it destroys the social life of the college.

Where fraternities stand in opposition to these basic principles it is the belief of administration officials as well as the majority of the students that the fraternities should be changed. The points of opposition are primarily to be found in the following phases of the fraternity organization: in the “rushing system,” whereby only a limited number of Freshman students are chosen for membership in a comparatively brief period of time; in the exclusiveness of fraternities, whereby, after the selection of members, relationships between students tend to settle along the lines determined by fraternity connections. It is in reference to these two characteristics of fraternities that change is likely to come.

Action towards the realization of a remodelled fraternity system (which may result in a no-fraternity system) has been first taken by the women of the college, aided by the college administration. Whether or not they will go on and finish the job with the men of the college following after depends upon the intelligence and persistence of students and college authorities alike—only by these qualities can a new truly satisfactory program of social life be established at Swarthmore.

The Swarthmore Phoenix

Raymond Walters, Jr.
Editor

THE Phoenix this year entered its second half-century of existence. No radical changes in policy were made, as the staff felt that it should devote all its efforts toward bettering, if possible, the high standards achieved in the past in furnishing a complete account, week by week, written in newspaper style, of all undergraduate as well as alumni activities.

The editorial columns during the year centered their attention on the women's fraternity problem, music and dramatics at the college, and the development of a "little conference" of small colleges for athletic relations. An attempt was made to meet every campus problem as it appeared, and to offer a definite and constructive attitude toward it. The letter column was unusually active during the year, and created a great amount of interest.

An effort was made to improve the artistic appearance of the paper and to this end several changes in typography and lay-out were made.

The highly successful departments, "Campus Comment," "On Other Campuses" and "The Theater" were improved, and frequent feature articles on subjects of Swarthmore interest were published from time to time.

The calibre of the editorial and news departments of the Phoenix were recognized by the Intercollegiate Newspaper Association when it gave honorable mention in both these fields at its convention last fall.

A new constitution which improved the future methods of selection of the editors-in-chief was offered to the Phoenix board and accepted. The main innovations concerned the increasing both of the salary and responsibility of the managing editor, and the addition of this official to the board. The reason for the division of the labor (each editor will take half of the yearly work) was the increasing inability of the students to keep both scholastic and publication work at a high standard.

Other improvements were suggested and adopted concerning the financing and selection of student members of the board.

The 1934 Halcyon

*Frank C. Pierson
Assistant Editor*

HEARS ago the monk in the medieval monastery turned his patient fingers to the copying of intricate manuscripts. Today those treasured documents stand as examples of exquisite craftsmanship and infinite care. That ideal of workmanship of the highest quality motivates the 1934 HALCYON. As the old ecclesiastic strove by the addition of illuminated capitals and borders to give color and spirit to the lettered page, so we have attempted through the medium of hand drawings to make the words here contained live for you.

More has been expended in a material sense than ever before to produce a product ranking as the best obtainable. That it will seem so to you is our earnest wish.

To the excellent staff of the HALCYON goes the greatest credit for any success we may have obtained. We wish to thank Mr. William Cooke of the Clark Printing House and Mr. Harry Firth of the Lotz Engraving Company for their kind co-operation and assistance. Except for their very genuine interest, this volume would have been impossible of production. Further credit must go to the Sophomore candidates, who made the book a financial success by their work upon advertising and subscriptions. The praise for the excellent photographic work is due to Mr. Lachman of Phillips & Co.

The Manuscript

F. Barron Freeman
Editor

THE Manuscript exists primarily as a medium for creative literary expression and for discussion of Swarthmore problems as well as for those of a wider scope. The magazine, issued in quarterly form, has completed its fourth year and made a definite place for itself in the field of Swarthmore publications.

This year the magazine has made singular progress in stabilizing its finances, expanding its alumni subscription list, and enlarging the scope of its material. The staff has tried to present the magazine in a dignified but attractive form; as a consequence the make-up has been carefully planned to produce a well-printed page and a unified effect which is especially commendable in view of the Manuscript's limited size.

Although its chief aim is to furnish opportunity for expression to undergraduate writers rather than to cater to a wide reading audience, nevertheless it has been felt that much of the value of the material in the magazine lies in the extent of its appeal to various, even if not to all, groups of students. With this in mind, the issues published this year have presented an enlarged book review section, a new department of dramatic criticism, and a series of articles of a national and international nature. Satirical writing, particularly in verse form, has been presented, as well as lyric poetry, fiction, and informal essays, covering a variety of subjects. Brief descriptive vignettes and extensive literary studies have also been given a definite place within the magazine.

Of particular note is the article, appearing in the February issue, concerning the then dormant fraternity situation confronting the women; this is illustrative of the magazine's function as a discussional publication. The book review section likewise deserves comment for the extensiveness and balance of its material. Political and economic commentaries, poetry, novels, biography, short stories, satire, and current periodicals are criticized intelligently and presented in a clear and interesting style.

By extending the magazine's scope and varying the nature of its contents without sacrificing its fundamental literary aims, the 1932-33 staff has illustrated the flexible nature of a publication still in process of formation. The Manuscript's value as a student medium of creative and discussional writing has been established, but the specific nature of its material will probably continue to vary, in response to undergraduate interest. It is hoped that student support of the magazine by subscription and contribution will continue to grow, so that a larger number and a more representative group of writers will take advantage of the widened scope of literary subjects.

The Little Theatre Club

Howard Turner
President

A NEW policy was inaugurated by the Little Theatre Club when their production of Spring, 1932, "The Enchanted April," by Kane Campbell, was presented by alumni members of the organization. Julie V. Chapman, '28, coached the play, and the cast was chiefly made up of graduates of recent years. The performance, both in acting and production, was very competent, and greatly enjoyed by the audience. Included in the cast were Elma Hurlock, '31, in the leading role of Lady Caroline Dester; Olive Deane, '28, as Mrs. Lotty Wilkins; Mrs. C. Thoburn Maxwell, '28, as Mrs. Rose Arbuthnot; Thomas Moore, '29, as Thomas Briggs; Nancy Deane, '31, as Mrs. William Fisher; Joseph Calhoun, '29, as Dominico; and Albert

Blackburn, '29, as Mellersh Wilkins.

Another departure from precedent occurred when the Little Theatre Club, instead of the junior class, produced the 1932 commencement play.

The action of "Love-in-a-Mist" revolves around the complications caused by the "white lies" of Diana Wynne, a part well acted by Babette Schiller, '33. The difficult part of her fiance, Gregory Farnham, was creditably handled by Howard Turner, '33. As Count Scipione Varelli, Edmund Dawes, '32, contributed a truly remarkable performance. Elizabeth Reller, '35, as the old maid aunt; Frances Lang, '34, as the young ingenue, and Helen Packard, '34, and George Joyce, '33, in their blackface roles all added fine pieces of acting.

The Little Theatre Club opened its 1932-33 season with still a further innovation, when it offered a bill of student-coached one-act plays, thus taking over a former function of the Curtain Theatre.

Gretchen Reller, '36; William Mercer, '35, and Margaret Huntington, '36, took part in George Middleton's "Tradition," coached by Robert Cadigan, '34. In the exclusively female cast of "A Woman of Character," directed by Margaret Fayerweather, '34, were Jane Hillebrand, '35, in the title role; Jane Langford, '36; Katherine Lever, '36; Lorraine Patterson, '36; Evelyn Dotterer, '34; Alice Robinson, '36; Cynthia Wentworth, '35; Winifred Moody, '36, and Armason Harrison, '35. Robert Lewine, '34, coached Martin Flavin's "A Question of Principle," in which William Hickman, '36; Craig Bell, '34; Van Dusen Kennedy, '35; John Armstrong, '34; George Cuttino, '35; Robert Young, '34, and Helen Holton, '36, acted. Most of the actors were performing for the first time in Swarthmore productions and did very well; and the coaches are also to be commended for their work.

Another success on the part of the Club was scored in the first full-length play of the season, "Children of the Moon," written by Martin Flavin, and coached by Kathleen Quinn, '32. The play is a rather intense psychological drama concerning the hereditary insanity of the Atherton family. Elizabeth Reller, '35, interpreted the role of the mother brilliantly, and Helen Merry, '35, was convincing in the part of the grandmother. Rita Tamblyn, '35, made a charming ingenue; Robert Cadigan, '34, acted the eccentric Judge; while Robert Young, '34; Robert Lewine, '34, and Ted Selmes completed the cast.

Glee Club

Arthur Holman
Acting Director

THIS year has seen a decided change in the personnel of those managing the Glee Club. Ben Ludlow, who took charge of the organization during his college course, returned to assume the position of director. Allen Mitchell, '33, served as student assistant to the director and manager, while Calvin Klopp was assistant manager of the society.

The Glee Club is a self-supporting organization, since its funds are derived from the concerts and the Prom, and is composed of college men who have been chosen members through a carefully conducted system of try-outs. Fifty men are retained to sing at home concerts, while those chosen to go on trips number forty. A program of four interesting concerts was arranged this year; a great deal of enthusiasm was shown and the managers count the past season a very successful one.

The program for the year included many Negro spirituals, of which "Swing Low, Sweet Chariot" and "Ezekiel" were perhaps the most popular. The Club's rendition of "Goin' Home" was well received, while Ludlow's original composition, "Australia," deserves special mention. The quartet, composed of Richard Humphrey, Harry Bomberger, Arthur Holman, and Richard Hubler sang several sea chanties, including the well-known "Eight Bells." Their encore consisted of a novel arrangement of the popular "Stardust."

The Club presented its first program on Sunday evening, February 12, at Strath Haven Inn. This affair is annually included by the management of the Inn as one in their series of regular musical features. Guests received the Club with a great deal of enjoyment and the initial performance was judged quite a favorable start for the season.

On Saturday, February 18, the Glee Club traveled to Atlantic City. There the men were welcomed for the week-end as guests of the Traymore Hotel. Saturday evening the Club gave its second fine performance before a large and appreciative audience. Following the concert a dance was held in the ballroom of the hotel.

On the night before Washington's Birthday, Tuesday, February 21, Haverford joined with Swarthmore in a presentation of the two Glee Clubs here. The program consisted of selections by each club and, in addition, several numbers by the two quartets. A splendid audience voted the concert one of the best and adjourned to the Glee Club Prom which annually follows this concert. To Babette Schiller, '33, goes credit for the decorations for this dance—some of the cleverest ever to transform the college dining rooms. The motif was that of a deep sea scene. A huge fish net formed a low ceiling while the walls were covered with unusual representations of marine life. Another factor contributing to make this one of the best dances we've had was the excellent music provided by the Casa Loma thirteen-piece orchestra, one which is Victor Recording and nationally known.

The season ended with a successful appearance at Moorestown on the 25th of February. The finish and ease with which the Club performed earned for them the commendation of the audience and wrote a satisfactory ending to the year's efforts.

Somerville Forum

Babette Schiller
Somerville President

President.....	BABETTE SCHILLER, '33
Vice-President.....	MARGARET FAYERWEATHER, '34
Corresponding Secretary.....	LUCINDA THOMAS, '34
Recording Secretary.....	SUE THOMAS, '35
Treasurer.....	ELIZABETH RELLER, '35

THE Somerville Forum was organized in 1871 as the Somerville Literary Society. Twenty years later, however, with the increasing emphasis on the women's fraternities, the society gradually weakened and was finally abolished. In 1922, Somerville was reorganized with the two-fold function of satisfying the student's need for cultural interests and of furnishing an organ of contact between alumnae and undergraduate women.

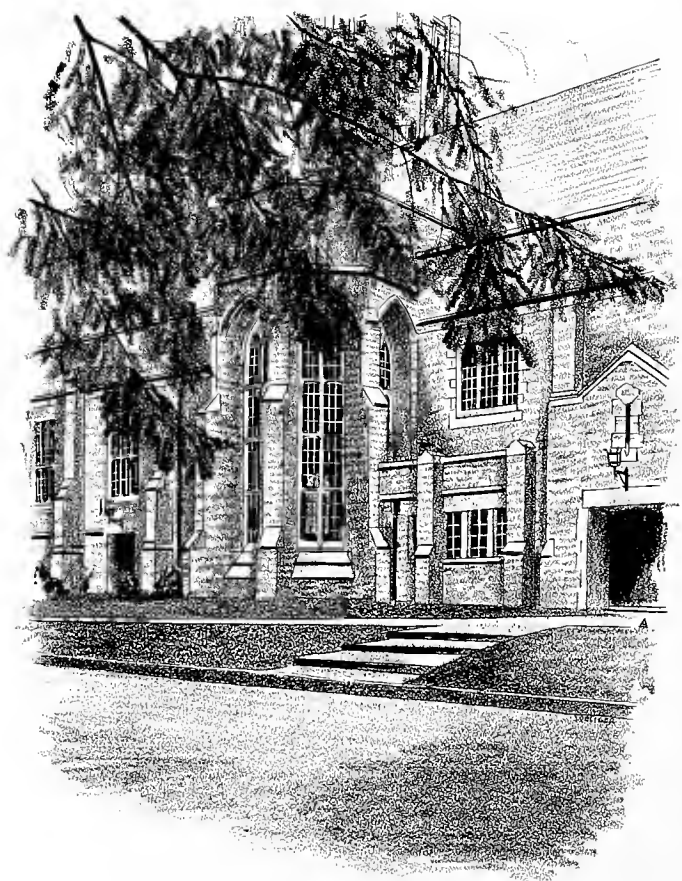

This latter purpose is stressed particularly on Somerville Day, held this year on April 8, 1933, when the alumnae return to conduct their meetings and to award the Lucretia Mott Fellowship for graduate study.

In conjunction with the increased emphasis this year on college functions, as opposed to the stress laid upon the women's fraternities, the Somerville Forum is holding an especially significant position. More time and more interest in cultural subjects has been evidenced and more funds have been available as a means of securing good programs.

On April 9, 1932, Somerville Day was observed. Following business meetings, reunions, and luncheon for alumnae and undergraduate women, it was announced that the Lucretia Mott Fellowship had been awarded to Frances Reinhold. After she had relinquished it, it was re-awarded to Edna and Eleanor Pusey.

Louis Untermeyer, famous poet and critic, was secured as speaker for the first Somerville meeting of the new school year. Mr. Untermeyer, who talked informally in the Friends' Meeting House on November 3, 1932, held the interest of a large audience with the pungent wit of his satirical verses and the sincere emotional expression of his more serious poetry. Deems Taylor, who undoubtedly ranks as the foremost American composer of the present day by virtue of such of his operatic suites as "The King's Henchman" and "Peter Ibbetson," was the speaker at the second Somerville meeting on December 8, 1932.

On January 5, 1933, the third program was presented, featuring Edward Steichen. Mr. Steichen, who has done photographic murals for the Chicago World's Fair and is particularly famous for his portraiture, was well qualified to talk on photography as the newest of the graphic arts. On March 16, Frank Lloyd Wright, one of the foremost modern American architects and the protagonist of functional architecture, was the speaker. In view of the fact that great interest was shown by the men of the college as well as the women, the Somerville Forum feels that it has achieved success in presenting a broad cultural survey through the present day leaders in the fields of literature, music, photography, and architecture.

Men's Debate

Manager.....RICHARD G. HUBLER
 Assistant Manager.....J. RICHARD REID
 Coach.....EVERETT L. HUNT

THE 1932-33 schedule of men's debating included fourteen debates and two Freshman debates which, together with three contests conducted by the Debate Board in speaking ability, totaled seventeen contests for the collegiate year.

Questions debated were the recognition of Soviet Russia, acceptance of organized religion, cancellation of war debts, that democracy is an outworn form of government, abolishment of electoral college, the three principal parties, and the policy of Japan in Manchukuo.

TEAM

ELIZABETH SCHAFER, '34      ELIZABETH EMMEL, '36      ELIZABETH LEVER, '36
 VIRGINIA SUTTON, '34      HELEN MALONE, '36      FRANCES COLE, '35

THE debating season of 1933 was extremely interesting and successful from many viewpoints. There were seven contests, which is two more than last year. In all of them the members of the team showed a fine spirit of co-operation and debated in a manner that was representative of the best of Swarthmore.

Perhaps the outstanding achievement of the season was the introduction of the Oregon Plan of debating to the campus. In this, the first speakers of both sides speak fifteen minutes, after which the second speakers of the opposing side question them. Following the cross-examination, the second speakers give the summaries. This way of debating increases the keenness and the interest of both the debaters and the audience and was used in the debates with Ursinus and Drexel.

Chorus and Orchestra

THE first project was a group of English madrigals with which to accompany Canon Fellowes in his speech on madrigals. This performance was given in Vespers on November 20. Dr. Fellowes is the world's leading authority on this form of music. The chorus sang several madrigals, some of which he accompanied.

After New Year's, the chorus and orchestra spent their time practicing for concerts, the one at Atlantic City and the home performance on April 7. The chorus sang a selection of Spanish and Russian folk songs, madrigals and religious music of Rachmaninoff and Kastalsky at Atlantic City on March 4.

The concert on April 7 included these selections and in addition selections from Glinka's opera, "Life for the Czar," and Haydn's "Masse in B Flat." This is the first time that "Life for the Czar" has ever been given in this country. It was exceedingly popular throughout Europe and especially in Russia during the Czarist regime. The overture to it was played entirely by the orchestra, which also accompanied the chorus during the opera and during the selections of Haydn.

THE Engineers' Club, organized in 1915, exists to promote understanding and fellowship between those majoring in engineering and the faculty, and to provide a medium for the discussion of industrial and technical matters. The outstanding event of the year was the Open House, conducted in order to acquaint students outside of the engineering school with its functions. A special feature of this annual event was the awarding of a prize by the Sigma Tau Society to the most worthwhile exhibit submitted by a student for this occasion. In connection with its yearly program, the student chapter of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers, that of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers, and that of the American Society of Civil Engineers each sponsored a dinner meeting. A banquet for the engineering alumni was an added feature. Several inspection trips were made to centers of interest by the Society in a body. The organization met every Thursday, at which time students presented papers on problems confronting the engineering world.

THE Trotter Biological Society is an honorary organization to which Sophomores and Upperclassmen in the Biology Department may belong. Plans were discussed last year in favor of making the Society a Greek letter honorary one, but the general sentiment was opposed to the idea.

There have been several informal meetings this year. At one of them Dr. Robert K. Enders, newly appointed member of the Zoology Department, gave a talk on the scientific research work which he had recently been doing in Panama. At another meeting, Jack Corbit, '31, told about his walking tour through Mexico doing medical work for the government. Dr. Percy M. Dawson spoke on "Physiological Results of High Altitudes."

Gridiron History

Coach George Pfann

THE 1932 season was not particularly brilliant, but in it, some saw the turning of the depression in football enthusiasm for Swarthmore. Two victories do not warrant excessive elation; nevertheless, the co-operation and scrap seen in the first half of the Gettysburg game carried through to frighten considerably favored teams and to upset completely Hopkins and Dickinson.

Coach Pfann called his candidates to Buck Hill Falls while the September sun was still hot. Apparently, thanks to the fine food and treatment, the boys did not lose much weight in spite of their strenuous workouts and eccentric habit of toting paving slabs from Parrish Walk about the country.

With the customary opening game with Penn, Swarthmore saw its faults and virtues with a convincing defeat to the tune of 54-0. Penn scored in every quarter, although the second and third periods saw the Garnet's best playing. Just before the whistle for the half, Fussell, substitute end, intercepted a pass and carried the ball to Penn's thirty yard line. At the beginning of the second half, a pass from Funke to Garrett took the ball to Penn's forty-six yard line; Abrams called for deceptive bucks and short passes to carry the ball thirty more yards, where it was lost on downs. Penn made its most spectacular touchdowns in the second period when a Garnet punt was blocked and again when Masavage ran sixty yards to place the ball in position for two plays and over. Funke, who had received a serious knee injury which kept him out most of the rest of the season, had another punt blocked to result in a safety.

The Garnet line was unable to withstand the force of the Red and Blue, freshened by its steady substitution, but reading from left to right—Sipler, Browning, Arnold, Clement, Heritage, Prest and Davies—all showed promise of good work for the season, while the backfield, as first lined up—Abrams, Orr, Schembs and Funke—spurred now and then. Substitutions for Swarthmore revealed some eager talent.

Rested and improving after this drubbing, the Garnet traveled up to historic Gettysburg, where the Bullets were flattened the greater part of the first half but finally tallied, 14-0. The loss of Funke and Sipler, due to injuries during the Penn game, was severely felt. Orr showed up well with his consistent gaining through well co-ordinated off-tackle plays and brilliant open field running, but was removed after being pretty completely battered. The first half appeared to be anybody's game. The Swarthmore line held consistently, while the backfield, for its outstanding offensive work, completed a thirty-five yard pass. Something snapped when Jones ran eighty yards for the Bullets' first score. In the second half, G-burg made its second touchdown by a blocked punt. Young and Davies, midget ends, bore the brunt of the Bullet attack, while MacNeille at tackle and Kelly in the backfield disported themselves commendably.

Franklin and Marshall gave Swarthmore its third defeat—31-13—discouraging, yet not as decisive as sports critics had expected. Swarthmore was called upon to hold the line during the first period, but by clever reverses F. & M. scored two touchdowns. In the second period, after two gaining runs around the ends by Kelly, Abrams took a pass from Schembs from the four yard line and scored. F. & M. came back to complete a twenty-five yard pass with a forty-five yard run for its third touchdown. The second half opened with an F. & M. advance to the fifteen yard line when Schembs intercepted a pass and aided by Prest's interference ran ninety yards for the Garnet's second tally. F. & M. held the ball till its final touchdown. Captain Schembs, Brad Arnold, Prest, Kelly and McCormack, a Freshman end, won the plaudits of the fans, while Browning, Post, Price, Turner, and Peters played well when they went in.

Another sensational disappointment was the loss to Susquehanna, 13-10, by a blocked punt in the final quarter after the score had stood at 7-10, in favor of the Garnet. The first period was marked by fumbles and reverses with the best playing given by Sipler, who punted from behind the goal, intercepted a pass, crashed through center, and made a twenty yard pass to Kelly on the six yard line. The ball was lost on the two yard line. The second period opened with a pass from Sipler to Abrams for a touchdown. Schembs kicked the extra point. After a general exchange of passes Susquehanna brought the score to 7-7. In the third period Prest recovered a fumble on the twelve yard line and after three attempts for touchdown, Schembs toed a field goal. In the last period after an exchange of punts and a loss to the twenty yard line, Sipler dropped back to punt and was blocked; he made another attempt with less than three minutes to play and Susquehanna blocked the punt for a touchdown. Heritage partially blocked several punts, while Davies, Schembs and Sipler played fine ball.

Johns Hopkins came along after defeating St. John's, Lehigh, and Haverford, to be defeated, 6-0. After Davies had recovered a fumble, Kelly took the ball ten yards, when this offensive ended. In the second period the Garnet was in scoring distance twice. Orr had carried the ball to the six inch line, where he was forced out of bounds. A few minutes later a short line buck produced our only score. Later Arnold and Browning blocked a punt on the eleven yard line, but a bad pass gave the ball to Hopkins on the twenty-five. Hopkins showed a dangerous spurt—during the last few minutes Hopkins made six of its eight first downs through passes—but it was too late. Orr was definitely the spark of the Garnet offensive. Funke, after his early season injury, returned to the game to lend his helping toe, while Schembs played his usual consistent game.

The Little Quakers bore the brunt of the Ursinus drive and succumbed, 20-0. The line played hard and good football throughout; unfortunately the secondary defense was ragged and in the second and third periods a Bear surprised himself by running thirty and again forty-eight yards for scores. Swarthmore had two chances of scoring—the first when Young and Osborne blocked a punt which was recovered on the eight yard line, and again when Funke's passes took the ball to the fifteen yard line. In the final quarter Ursinus blocked a punt and shortly made its final goal and extra point. Funke, Schembs, and Garrett contributed mainly to Swarthmore's attack, while McCormack made Ursinus realize he was at that end.

The final game was played at Carlisle, when Swarthmore finally waded through the mud to defeat Dickinson, 6-0. Howard Sipler and Captain Schembs, both playing their last football game for the Garnet, led their team to a score in the opening period and then held stubbornly for the remaining periods of the game. Kelly and Orr gained through tackle but fumbled; fortunately the Garnet recovered on the nine-yard line and Sipler, newly shifted from his end position, carried the ball over the line. Dickinson threatened to score in this same period when the slippery ball stuck to the foot of a Garnet back. Until the last few minutes, when Dickinson attempted an aerial attack, the game was a mud slinging fest. Nevertheless, this victory left a pleasant optimism within the ardent fan; this year's season has broken the three years' precedent of not scoring more than one victory.

President Aydelotte announced shortly after the Penn game that in accord with his policy of scheduling similarly capable teams, that with the friendly relation maintained, it was the mutual desire of the two Quaker schools to discontinue football relations. Thus will be eliminated a "practice" game and a customary blow at the opening of the season.

Letters were awarded to Captain Schembs, Manager Humphries, Assistant Manager Klopp, and in alphabetical order: Abrams, Browning, Davies, Funke, Fussel, Garrett, Heritage, Kelly, Leber, MacNeille, McCormack, Orr, Prest, Sipler, and Young. Much credit must be given to Coach Pfann for his work in making out of what seemed to be for the most part a raw aggregation of would-be gridiron men a highly successful eleven—at least according to the Garnet standards of the last few years. His methods seem simple to the observer; hard conditioning, frequent practice under full equipment, a complete knowledge of a few fundamental plays, together with an undeniable spark best shown in the Gettysburg and Hopkins games. Nevertheless, it took something more that is not so easy to qualify for Swarthmore to interest such a large squad of men so firmly in football. The method is beyond us; but we like the results.

Much praise as well must go to the trainers and assistant managers for their time and work. It is little noticed and less appreciated most of the time, but is a vital element of a good team. And last but not least, come the scrubs who took a battering each day to train the Varsity in the way they should go.

President Aydelotte's cancellation of the University of Pennsylvania game for a seasonal opening, as mentioned above, will be commended by both alumni, undergraduates, and faculty. The discouraging thrashing of a small college team which must necessarily come from a ten times larger institution is not an invigorating set-up to the former. To this may be attributed some of the Garnet's most discouraging seasons. The only thing which it removes from the football schedule is the chance of the Little Quakers for scoring a sensational upset against their more touted rivals—the possibility which has dwindled to infinitesimal proportions these latter years.

Soccer Season

Coach Robert Dunn

NO MATTER how you look at the situation, the 1932 soccer season was fairly successful. Out of seven games played, three were lost, three were won, and the last was a 0-0 tie. But when one considers that the team lost seven, or nearly half of its last year's letter men, Captain Rudy, the high scorer among them, one realizes that we really came out with flying colors.

Bill Stetson, who played such an excellent defensive game last season, was chosen for the 1932 captain. He resumed his former position at right fullback, kept Ben Moore at his position at the goal, and Frank Pierson as the other fullback. The backfield was thus essentially the same, but every other position on the team was changed. Dean Caldwell became the official left half and Ted Herman took the position at center. Right half was filled by Frank Porter, who took Frank Fischer's place. Herb Harlow and Lloyd Pike took the outside positions in which Sylvester Garrett, Stephen Clark, Bert McCord, and Pike alternated last year. Jim Perkins, who formerly played inside halfback and fullback, held a definite position which he shifted with Franklin Miller, as an inside. Frank Fischer switched to right inside which Jack Kistler played last season, and George (Whitey) Joyce took former Captain Rudy's position at center.

The preliminary game of the season found the Garnet facing the Franklin and Marshall team at the Swarthmore field on October 7. A score of 2-0 in favor of the home team gave us much confidence on which to enter into the games of the season. Despite the new line-up the co-operation of the team was excellent. The backfield, just as it had played together a whole season before, was in good form and encouraged the rest of the team to play up to their standard. Herb Harlow and Ted (Zeke) Herman, the two new members of the squad, proved themselves more than worthy of the responsible positions which had been given them to hold down.

The second game was played against Penn on our own field the following week on October 15. The losing score of 4-0 was not a sign that the team had no fighting spirit but rather that the breaks were consistently against them and that the co-operation was bad and grew steadily worse as the team felt that they were being beaten.

The third game was with Princeton, and was an added attraction on the Founders' Day program of October 22. Marking the second victory of the Garnet, it was decidedly the high spot of the season. The excitement during the game was intense and the final score was 4-2 in favor of Swarthmore. This meant six goals, which was the most scored in any single game this season. Captain Stetson played a marvelous game in defense and all the players on both teams were at a high pitch. Zeke proved his worth again by playing hard and well.

The game with Lafayette on their field was the second straight victory; the final score was 2-0 in our favor. Due probably to the smallness of the field, the game was a rough one, but even so, the team showed an increase in teamwork.

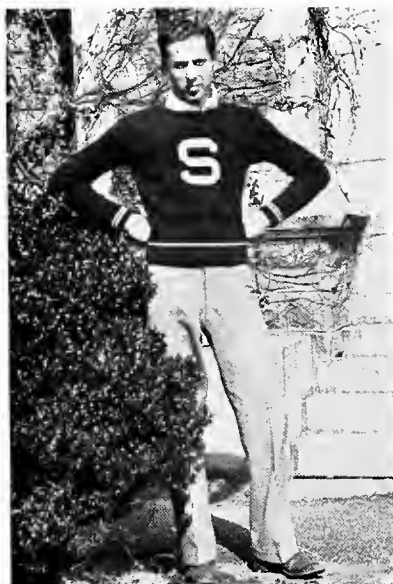

The Cornell game was the closest of the season with a final toll of 3-2, in their favor. It was played on the field at Ithaca on November 5. The teams were evenly matched and the game was an exciting one.

The next week the game with Lehigh finished with a 0-0 score. The Swarthmore eleven played a hard, good game and due to the equally excellent play of our opponents we were not able to score.

The last game of the year was played with Haverford, and the rival schools provided many thrills for the spectators. Though the game was on the opponents' field, most of Swarthmore turned out and two excellent cheering sections, one for each team, resulted. The final score was 3 to 1, in favor of Haverford, but Swarthmore got the last word by singing an uncomplimentary song in loud tones just before leaving.

The season as a whole was very successful, and the games were generally closer played than the scores indicated. The Seniors, Stetson, Pike, Joyce, Porter, and Fischer, played good consistent games and co-operated well together. Bill Stetson and Ted Herman were all-American this year, Zeke playing every minute of every game. Herb Harlow and Pike made some sensational shots at their positions at the two wings.

Graduation will take away the nucleus of the team with Stetson, Joyce, Porter, Pike, and Fischer being handed diplomas, but with Captain-elect Pierson,

Manager Reynolds, '33

Princeton vs. Swarthmore

Herman, and Harlow and a good jay-vee team to build around. Coach Dunn has a fairly optimistic outlook.

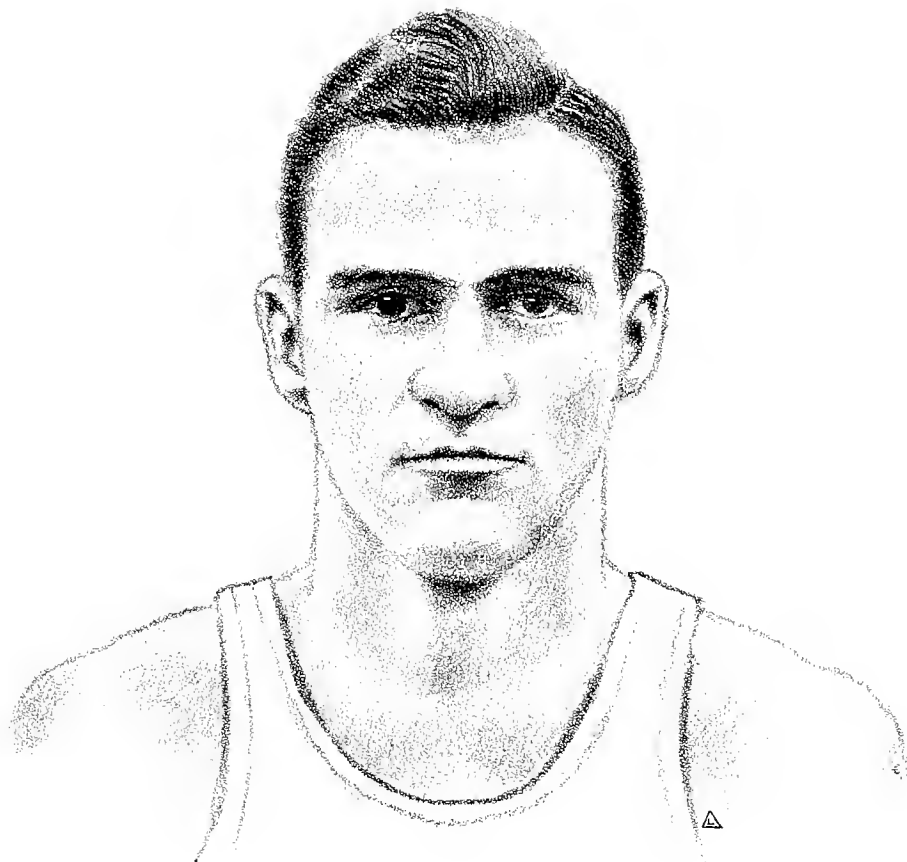

To keep in some sort of trim during the winter the coach has arranged a winter soccer schedule and a grand year is looked forward to by all next fall.

Basketball Season

Manager Joyce, '33

THE prospects for the season seemed unusually bright, as last year's team was still intact. Captain Sipler, Abrams, Stetson, Turner, and MacCracken were all back and with the assistance of such seasoned reserves as Pike, Prest, and Heward, the season seemed to augur well. While the results were good, ten wins and five losses, nevertheless, there are many who feel that the results might have been better. But it often happens that when a team plays a second season without a change in personnel, there is often a let-down in interest. This seemed quite evident this year and with several exceptions it was only a perfection of technique rather than a desire to win that brought the victories.

It was unfortunate to start the season with Penn. Under the best of conditions most Swarthmore teams play Penn with an inferiority complex, but the first game of the season makes such a feeling all the more noticeable. We had as good a team as Penn, matching man for man, but the teamwork was missing. It was a Penn night from the start to finish and the mounting Penn score seemed to take all the fire out of the Swarthmore team. The final score was 40-16 and is fairly indicative of the way the two teams played. The next and last game before the Christmas vacation was with Pharmacy, and although we won, 39-33, the game was devoid of the type of basketball that the team was capable of playing.

The first week-end after college had reconvened, the team went to New England and met Williams and Wesleyan. In the first game the team didn't come to life until the second half, but Williams had piled up a lead too large to be overcome, the final score being 34-24. Wesleyan was an easy victory at 30-22, for Swarthmore took the lead in the opening minutes of the game and had no trouble keeping the lead for the remainder of the evening. The work of the defense was particularly noticeable in the latter contest, while the offense, with Sipler dominating, featured the former.

The next three games resulted in two losses and one victory. The first of the three, with Johns Hopkins, was slow with but little scoring. In the waning seconds of the game Hopkins eked out a victory by breaking a 22-22 tie to win by 25-22. Osteopathy came with a long winning streak only to leave on the short end of a 41-29 score. The next game, with St. Joseph's, found Zuber of the opposition taking all the spotlight. Those who saw the game last year remember his uncanny eye. Well, his eye was still good and Swarthmore couldn't stop him. The score was remarkably low, 20-15, in their favor.

Balcyon

Swarthmore now entered upon the Indian summer of the year with six straight wins. The first of these games, with Lafayette, marked the return of last season's zip and though the score was only 33-30, our team played much better than this would seem to indicate. Abrams was easily the high scorer with thirteen point.

Abrams was again in the limelight, accounting for twelve points in the game with Amherst, which Swarthmore won, 35-29. Stetson was back in the line-up and his presence obviously improved the teamwork.

The next victory was somewhat of a surprise but therefore all the more gratifying—a surprise because St. John's was conceded the better team, and gratifying because the score was 38-30 in favor of Swarthmore and also because the team played good ball. MacCracken was high scorer, making all his goals from the field in the first half.

Hamilton showed Swarthmore a snappy brand of five-man defense which our team found difficult to solve. Such defense makes close shooting too difficult and so our team resorted to some long range shooting. The game was very tight when Coach Larkin made one of his few substitutions, Jim Heward. This move proved fortunate, for Heward supplied the necessary extra speed to pull the game out of the fire, scoring seven points in the final few minutes. The game ended 38-30.

Probably the most exciting game of the season was the one with P. M. C., who came to Swarthmore with a formidable record of nine wins and one loss. In the first half Swarthmore put on a scoring attack in which they played the best ball of the season. Abrams and the others dropped them from every angle of the court, and the half ended with a 27-7 lead. However, it was our opponents' turn in the second half, and led by Kawal, they put on a scoring spree that brought them within four points of the lead by the end of the game, the score ending at 44-40.

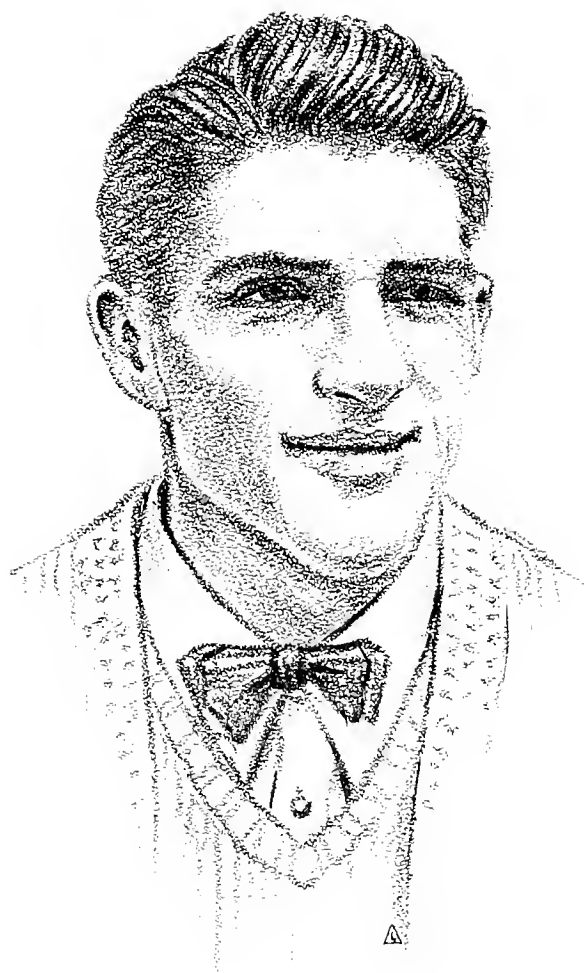

The Haverford game was dull, not very good basketball and the victory was expected by both sides. The end of the first half found the score about even, but Abrams' work in the second half settled the issue, the final score being 41-29. The game with Lehigh was a miserable affair, with Swarthmore lapsing into the spiritless basketball that characterized several of the games of the season. The score was 33-27. The final game of the season was with Washington College and found the Swarthmore team showing how good basketball should be played. From the first five minutes the outcome was never in doubt. MacCracken had his eye on the basket, dropping thirteen field goals for twenty-six points, the final score resting at 56-32.

Lacrosse

Coach Avery Blake

THE 1932 lacrosse season was a most successful one, for the team came through with eight victories out of eleven games played. Of the three Maryland teams to whom the Garnet bowed and which were distinctly above our class, one—Johns Hopkins—won the Intercollegiate play-off in Baltimore and later the Olympic Championship, while the other two, St. John's and Mount Washington, also engaged in the play-offs for the Olympics. In addition to this record, Swarthmore won first place in the Middle Atlantic States Association for the second year in succession, having won all its games in that league. To Coach Avery Blake must go the major part of the credit for this feat.

The Varsity broke into open competition on March twelfth when the Penn A. C. team took a defeat on the Swarthmore field to the tune of 11-1. At the half-time the home team led, 6-0, and it was shortly after the second period opened that the Pennacs gained their only goal, leaving Swarthmore an easy conquest.

The stick men gained the second victory on the schedule on May nineteenth, when they swamped the Alumni in a field of mud, ankle deep. The only redeeming feature of the hectic game, in which almost the whole second team saw action, was the 14-1 score, which augured a powerful attack.

The Mount Washington game, April second, was a pretty sad affair from beginning to end—the Blakemen came back from Spring vacation to meet the Baltimore team on the latter's field with the distinct disadvantage of having had no practice over a considerable period. The score, a 9-2 triumph for the Baltimoreans, was not indicative of the difference in teams.

In the first league encounter of the year, on April ninth, the Garnet boys played the best game of their season when they beat New York University on the Swarthmore field. The New York U. men were not able to push past the Garnet defense until the last minutes of the struggle, but their late revival had little effect, for Pike soon struck up his fourth goal to end the game, 9-1, to the visitors' sorrow.

On the other hand, April sixteenth saw our stick men humbled when the visiting Johns Hopkins team, in the top of form and playing stellar lacrosse, trounced them for a 16-3 fall. McCord, with two goals in the first half and Pike with one in the second, saved the home aggregation from a more stinging defeat.

The team's journey to Hoboken on April twenty-third resulted in a 7-1 triumph over a weak Stevens twelve. The first half was very mediocre and furnished little excitement as good lacrosse, ending with a Swarthmore 2-1 lead, thanks to Jones and Crowl. However, the second period saw some fast and clever work when Jones found the net and Pike made four goals, all in the first nine minutes.

Galecyon

On the twenty-seventh the Varsity chalked up another victory—this the sweetest of the season for the Little Quakers, who handed the University of Pennsylvania the small end of an 8-6 score on the home field. The first half of the game was all Swarthmore and 5-1 at the gun, but with the second period the tables seemed to turn and Penn put up a stiff and rough fight, characterized by numerous penalties, much to their disgust. To Pike and Crowl go high scoring honors, for each chalked up two goals.

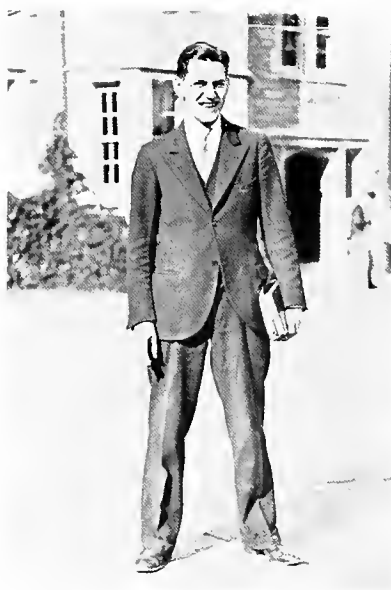

Three days later the stick men journeyed to Bethlehem to meet a much weaker team and to execute a Lehigh massacre, 16-2. At the start the Garnet showed little promise of the score they were eventually to roll up, but soon woke up to end the first period, 6-2. In the second half they came back determined to make up for laxity in the first few minutes and piled up a fourteen-point lead. Pike headed the scoring list with five tallies, while to Crowl's credit went four.

In one of the slowest and loosest games of the season the team took the Lafayette visitors into camp with a 12-0 song. In spite of the fact that the men showed little spark and a lack of smooth playing this conquest stands as a record, for that aim was accomplished toward which Blake has been working for the past two years—a non-score game as far as the opponent's goals were concerned. Pike, who was almost consistently high scorer, opened the scoring, made four shots during the middle of the game, and added the twelfth tally, while Price, Crouse, Jones, and McCord contributed toward the final score.

The third and last defeat of the year was met by the Garnet team at the hands of a St. John's College twelve at Annapolis on the fourteenth of May. Pike made the one Swarthmore goal when he received a pass from Joyce during the middle of the first half. That period ended 3-1. The second period was marked by numerous unsuccessful tries at the St. John's goal, while Davies made some excellent stops at the Garnet goal. Douglas and Browning both played a good defense game, while Jones and Crowl often gave the attack unexpected resistance. However, neither team was at its best, and the score stood at the end, 5-1.

The final touch was added to the season with the stirring 3-2 win over Washington College on the twenty-first of May. Playing on their opponents' field the closing score, the same as that in last year's game, seemed but a remote possibility as the game grew shorter, for the half saw Washington boasting a 2-1 lead. But the Garnet, mindful that this game decided the M. A. S. L. championship, rallied in the last three minutes and overcame the one-point lead that obstructed them. The third goal came at Volkmar's hand with but forty seconds remaining to play, and brought victory to an aspiring team.

Pike carried off high scoring honors for the year with a total of thirty-one goals. He led the intercollegiate scoring list far ahead of his runner-up, a University of Maryland man, who was credited with twenty-three tallies. Captain Jones played an excellent game at center, while Davies was indispensable at the goal and responsible to a great extent for the steady defense which Swarthmore quite consistently presented. Blake will miss Captain Jones, Hadler, Douglas, Crowl, McCord, Sonneman, and Crouse next year, for all have contributed much to the Garnet's successful season.

Baseball Season

Coach Robert Dunn

WITH six new opponents on an enlarged schedule of thirteen games, the 1932 Garnet baseball team won seven and lost six of its encounters, getting off to a bad start but warming up as the season progressed. Though bad weather decidedly limited opportunity for pre-season practice, the squad finally got under way with a nucleus of five 1931 letter men. Development of a new pitching staff and seasoning of the rest of the team brought about a good finale.

The Garnet opened the season with a 12-7 win over Lehigh, but the heavy hitting was somewhat offset by seven errors. Captain Sipler, on his first time at bat, hit one over the left centerfield bank for a home run to start his season in good form. After Lehigh had piled up four runs in the fourth inning, the Garnet retaliated by tying the score in their half of the fourth and again in the fifth. They then took the lead with a three-run rally, featuring singles by Stetson, Schembs, Wray, MacCracken, and Abrams, and staged a four-run uprising in their last turn at bat, with MacCracken cleaning the bases on his own hit to right field, and sliding home on Stevens' fly to short leftfield. MacCracken turned in a perfect batting average with three hits in as many times up. Schembs and Stetson were in their new positions in the pitcher's box, and showed promise, although eight hits and nine walks were chalked up against them. Dawes contributed the fielding gem of the game when he leapt high in the air to collar a Lehigh liner in the sixth inning.

The game scheduled with Penn A. C. was called off because of rain. Swarthmore lost the second game of the season to Army by a 2-0 score, largely because of the airtight pitching of Bob Landry, Army luminary, plus too many Garnet errors. Sipler turned in a good performance in the pitcher's box, striking out six cadets. Cadigan and Harlow were the only Swarthmore men to squeeze hits out of Landry's fast and tricky pitching.

A week later the Garnet suffered a second defeat in the third game of the season, nosed out by Penn State's steady slugging, with a 9-8 score. With four runs turned in for Swarthmore by Harlow, Abrams, Dawes, and Schembs, in the first inning, the situation looked safe until State piled up three runs and then tied the score with a home run. Penn State more than evened Swarthmore's second assault in the second inning by chalking up one run in their half of the second, and three in the fifth, plus the winning run in the seventh. Stetson, aided by Schembs and Wray, made a double killing in the first inning when he put out one Penn State man, and then picked off another with a snap throw to Abrams, whose man had wandered past second.

The Dunnmen took their third straight defeat in a loosely played comedy of errors at Franklin Field, when Penn chalked up seventeen runs to the Garnet's seven. The Big Quakers erased Swarthmore's early lead and ran up five runs for themselves in their half of the first inning. Hits by Stevens and Stetson in the second failed to produce a Garnet score, but the Little Quakers rang up three in the fourth inning, when Wray, MacCracken, and Stetson all crossed the plate. Penn completely upset the Garnet applectart by scoring three runs per inning from the fifth to the end of the game, neither Stetson nor Sipler being able to stop them.

The steady train of Garnet defeats went on with Swarthmore losing to Osteopathy by a 9-8 score, and to Temple, 17-9. After Osteopathy had rolled up a 6-1 lead, Swarthmore finally tied the score with a five-run splurge in the seventh, for which Harlow, Sipler, Abrams, Wray, and MacCracken were responsible, but Osteopathy won the game with a double and single in the eighth inning. A hard-hitting Temple nine took the Dunnmen for their fifth consecutive beating, running up eight points in the fourth inning. Abrams, star scorer for the Garnet, collected two doubles and a single in four times at bat; Stetson pitched the entire game.

Two fast games, resulting in a 6-4 victory over Gettysburg, followed by a 7-5 win from Dickinson, brightened the season when it seemed to have gone into a permanent slump. Captain Sipler took the mound against Gettysburg and struck out thirteen of the opponents, allowing only seven hits. The game was satisfactory in all respects, Sipler and Schembs both scoring three times, and the infielders permitting a minimum of errors. In the Dickinson game the following day, the Garnet piled six runs across the plate in the sixth inning. Stetson retired from the mound in the second inning in favor of Schembs, and the latter was able to hold Dickinson to three hits.

A 10-6 win over Ursinus and a 1-0 victory from Haverford proved that the Garnet was thoroughly rejuvenated. Though Ursinus scored consistently, Captain Sipler's pitching confined the Bears' activities to one run at a time. By the fourth inning, the Garnet had built up an eight-run lead to work on, and Sipler easily coasted in to victory on his home run. Stetson covered himself with glory in the Haverford game by almost pitching a no-hit, no-run game. The Garnet score came as a result of three successive singles by Harlow, Abrams, and Schembs in the fifth, Harlow being the one to cross the plate.

Pennsylvania Military Academy blasted out a 10-9 victory over a slightly inflated Garnet contingent, getting off to an early lead with two runs in the second and two more fast ones in the third. Swarthmore tied the score in the fourth on three walks, an outfield fly by Abrams and singles by Harlow and Schembs. With the Garnet trailing in the last half of the ninth inning, Sipler hit his second home run of the week, bringing in two men, but Stetson struck out with the count two and three, and P. M. C.'s narrow margin gave them the victory.

The Stevens game, called in the seventh inning because of rain, gave the Garnet its seventh win by the score of 4-0. Swarthmore started off in the first inning with Dawes sending a single to right field. Stetson and Sipler followed suit and Dawes scored. After the second run, in the second inning, threats by both teams in the sixth were downed by fast infield work. The Garnet made its last two scores in the seventh, a heavy drizzle causing that inning to be the last. Sipler, pitching, stole the spotlight by permitting only three singles.

The second Haverford-Swarthmore game of the season proved to be the worst beating that the Red and Black had received from their traditional enemies in some years, the Garnet swamping them under a 19-0 score. Bill Stetson was again in prominence, striking out ten Haverford men and scoring three hits himself. Sipler made his fourth home run, and Schembs hit two singles and a triple. This was the seventh Garnet win in the thirteen intercollegiate games. The Varsity lost, however, to the Alumni by an 8-1 count.

Under the captaincy of Howard Sipler, the team started out ingloriously, and then recovered sufficiently in the middle of the season to win seven out of the total of thirteen games. One cause for the upward trend may be assigned to the gradual improvement of the three new pitchers, Sipler, Stetson, and Schembs. Eddie Dawes at short and Johnny Abrams at second base furnished a good double-play combination. Herb Harlow playing errorless ball, Jim MacCracken and Eddie Stevens did good work in the field, as did Porter Wray at third base, while Bob Cadigan proved his worth as Varsity material. Monroe Vansant was manager and Paul Strayer assistant manager.

Track Season

Coach Bert Barron

LOOKING back at the 1932 track season, we find that there were prospects of a successful season present at the very start. On the first day of practice seven out of the previous year's Varsity letter men reported for practice to Coach Barron and Manager Moore. These forecasts proved favorable when the final tally showed that this team had won three dual meets, lost two dual meets, won the Middle Atlantic States, Class "B" relay championship; and had placed fourth in the I. S. C. A. A. meet held at Allentown. During the last meet, they were but three and a half points behind Lehigh, who placed second with a score of  $23\frac{1}{2}$  points.

The early part of the Spring practice was inclement and disagreeable, making successful training work almost impossible. However, on April 9, they traveled down to meet Johns Hopkins with high hopes, but emerging from the contest at the wrong end of a 65-61 score. That we lost this meet was probably due to the muddy field and the better training permitted to the Southern boys. Captain Walker and Tom Casey split the honors for high scoring with eight points each. However, during the entire meet, the team seemed better balanced than last year and prospects for the coming contests brightened considerably.

The next meet with Delaware, on April 16, showed great improvement on the part of the team over the previous match. The Little Quakers won the day with a score of 68 2-3 to 57 1-3. Captain Walker starred by taking first in the hundred and in the low hurdles. Casey came second with a total of nine points. The 440 and the two-mile were won by Casey and Franklin Miller respectively. Willis took the 880 and "iron man" Bob Lewis struggled from a sick-bed to hurl the javelin for another first place for Swarthmore. The Freshman pole vault record previously held by H. Olin, '18, was broken by Muller in a jump of 11 feet  $2\frac{1}{2}$  inches.

On April 23, they met Lehigh, who gave us our second defeat of the season. After breaking three meet records and tying a fourth, the strong Brown and White team returned home with a winning score of 73-53. Gold, of Lehigh, set a new meet record when he hurled the javelin 178 feet  $10\frac{1}{2}$  inches. Fuller and Garber of Lehigh tied in the pole vault at 12 feet  $\frac{1}{4}$  inch for the second new record, and Meissman set a new high jump record of 5 feet  $11\frac{1}{2}$  inches. Finally Bill Jurdan won the mile run, tying the record of 4.38 minutes. However, the Garnet took three firsts. Walker took the 100 and the low hurdles, while Willis took the 880-yard run.

Balcony

One week later, on April 30, the Swarthmore team journeyed into the Penn Relays. From this encounter we emerged the holders of the Class "B" championship. Willis, Walker, Leber, and Casey were the men who succeeded in winning this title. Very close competition was given by the competing Haverford and Dickinson teams. However, Casey, the anchor man, closed up a two-yard lead and spurted ahead to place first by a small margin. Although there was a great deal of wind, the time was 3 minutes 31.4 seconds, which was very fast. In fighting trim and their spirits bolstered by this title, the Garnet cindermen met Muhlenburg and defeated a weak but courageous team to the tune of 79-47. Coach Barron's charges took nine firsts and a large proportion of the seconds and thirds. Two Freshman records were broken at this meet. Funke, for his first and only attempt at track during that season, was rewarded with the Freshman javelin record of 169 feet 9 inches, which had been held by Guttormsen, '27. Muller and his teammate, Harris, broke the Freshman pole vault record set by the former at the Delaware meet with a tie jump of 11 feet 7½ inches. Kelly, Casey, and Walker were the leading scorers, each acquiring eight points.

Manager Arnold, '33

On May 14 the fighting Garnet team entered in the M. A. S. C. A. A. championship battle at Allentown. Manhattan College easily won first place with a score of 59½ points. However, there was a triangular battle for second place between Lehigh, Rutgers, and Swarthmore. Lehigh emerged the victor with 23½ points. Rutgers was third with 22 points, and Swarthmore was fourth with a tally of 20 points. This is a step up from sixth place, obtained by the 1931 team, which had a total of 17¾ points.

In the last meet of the year, with our old rival, Haverford, Swarthmore emerged victorious to the tune of 68-58. This is to be regarded a great victory since it is the first time that we have beaten a Haverford track team since 1926. Walker, Willis, and Casey each brought in ten points. Willis placed first in the mile grind and in the 880. Walker easily captured his customary century and the 220 low hurdles. Casey won the 120 high hurdles and the 440-yard dash. Muller and Harris shattered the already twice broken Freshman pole vault record with another tie of 11 feet 9¾ inches. Alstaetter decided the meet with his broad jump of 20 feet 2½ inches.

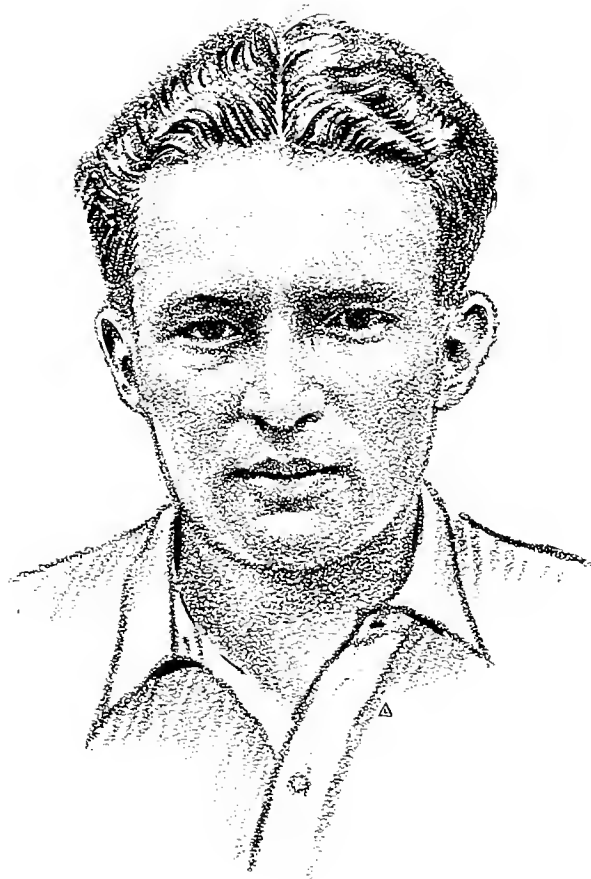

Considerable improvement was shown during the entire season and with twelve of his fourteen letter men returning, Coach Barron and Captain-elect Willis have the brightest of outlooks for the 1933 season.

Tennis

Manager Greenspan, '33

THE past tennis season was unfortunately another step on the downward scale of Swarthmore's decline in tennis. From a fairly successful 1931 season of six wins and four losses, the Garnet made a decisive turn in the wrong direction by winning only three out of ten games played. This seems peculiar, due to the fact that four letter men returned: Captain Ed Lutton, Ted Lynn, Bill Eaton, and Henry Rudy. This either means that the team had a hard luck season, or that Swarthmore's netmen are definitely inferior to those of her opponents.

The first two games of an exceptionally long schedule were not played due to adverse weather conditions. That removed Navy and Drexel from the list. Judging by the remainder of the season, it also removed two more winners.

The first encounter of the season was unfortunately with Penn. This resulted in a Garnet defeat to the tune of 8-1: Hadley and Greenspan, in a doubles match, kept the game from being a complete shut-out. Perhaps this first defeat merits an explanation. The Garnet men were sadly in need of practice and consequently were off form throughout the matches. The playing was unsteady, and the team seemed to lack the ability to cope with the difficult situations which arose. Add to these faults the fact that they were faced by a superior team in the first match of the season, and the defeat does not seem strange.

Alas, the second! For the first time in sixteen years, the Garnet bowed its head in defeat to a Haverford tennis team, and a 7-2 score at that! Again, the netmen had an off-day. The playing was erratic and lacked all signs of spontaneity. Lynn and Hadley alone were able to crash through with wins.

Lafayette was the next foe and conqueror. The only improvement in the Faulkner racketmen was registered in the somewhat slight gain in the tail-end of a score. The final tally was 6-3, which shows a somewhat awakening team. Hadley and Reynolds, and a doubles victory accounted for the Garnet's share.

A retrogression into black shades! New York University took the Swarthmore aggregation for a trouncing in a battle ending 8-1; which tells the story in itself.

The first victory was over Hamilton by a fairly close score of 4-2. Rudy, Lutton, Eaton, and the combination of Lutton and Rudy were responsible. The Garnet played a hard and fast game and by dint of much fighting managed to come out on top. The individual matches were close and interesting; it must be said that an entirely different and vastly improved team handed its opponent this beating. The men were quick at the net and showed an astonishing ability to commandeer the court.

Balcyon

The next game, one with Villanova, provided a treat to the onlooker, but resulted in a defeat for Swarthmore. By fighting hard in an extremely close game, Hadley managed to conquer his opponent. Lutton, playing singles, and Greenspan and Reynolds at doubles did not have such a difficult time of it. This defeat was not so heavy a mark against the Garnet; the men put up a hard fight, but the team was unable to work together.

Johns Hopkins administered a worse beating, running up a 7-2 score against the Garnet. This game sadly represented a return of the team to its old tactics and showed another glimpse of its incapacity.

The Garnet racketmen got busy again and won the second match in a brisk tilt with Lehigh. This was a feather in the cap of Faulkner's men and they deserve full credit for a splendidly played 6-3 win. Lynn, Hadley, Lutton, Eaton, Lutton and Rudy, and Reynolds and Eaton were responsible.

The winning streak was continued in a brilliant win over Rutgers by a tally of 7-2. Almost every match was well played and the tilt was won through sheer ability and not through lucky breaks. Every man woke up and gave his best to what turned out to be the best game of the season. The fighting spirit seemed to be aroused and the effect was certainly disastrous on the Garnet opponent.

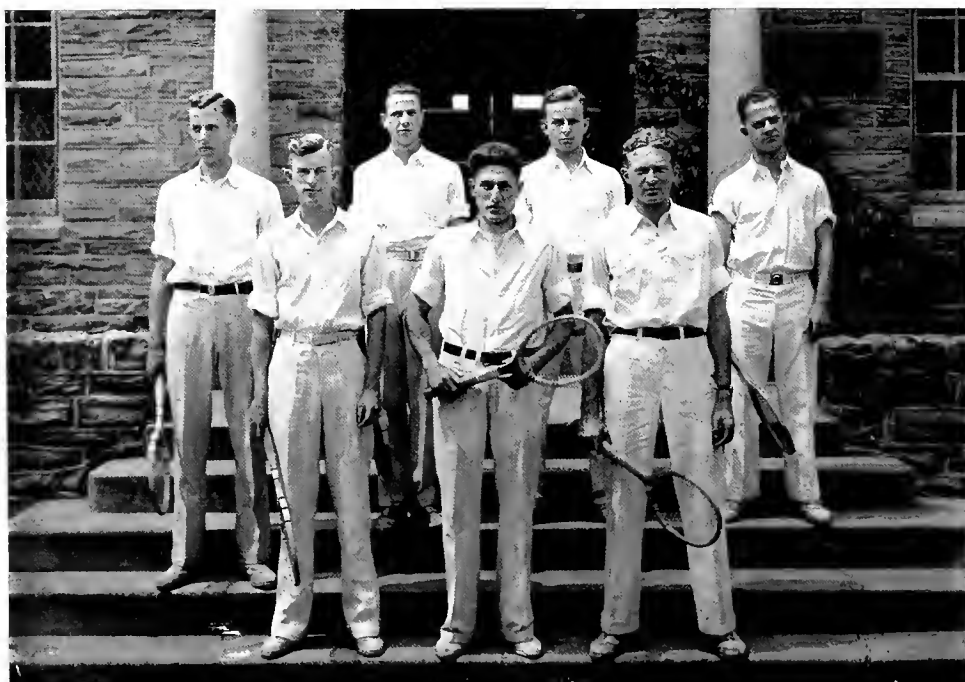

The losing season was ended with the Dartmouth game. The Swarthmore team seemed to rest on its laurels gained by the two previous victories and let themselves be beaten in an easily won game by a score of 6-3. Reynolds and Hadley accounted for two of the Garnet tallies.

Looking at the season as a whole, one player seems to have been more consistent in putting up the Garnet scores than the others. This man was Paul Hadley, a Freshman who gained his opportunity by coming out as winner in the men's fall tournament. This newcomer eclipsed the veterans with his splendid backhand stroke and ability to be almost anywhere on the court at any time required. Credit must be given to Ted Lynn for some of the season's hardest battles. As a whole, the team seems to have lost much of its former spark; the veterans who should have caused a more successful season fell down sadly. Rudy failed on his one-time successful serves, Lutton appeared to have lost his usual ability, Lynn was more than ever erratic, and Reynolds, Eaton, and Greenspan did not perform at their capacity. Perhaps the loss of the season is partly attributable to the unusually strenuous schedule which rather better suited bygone teams than the 1932 one. At any rate, Manager Starling's team failed to do the expected. Hopes for the future are centered around the nucleus of Captain-elect Lynn, Hadley, Reynolds, and Greenspan, who remain with us and around such newcomers who may assert themselves.

The 1933 schedule, as already partly announced by Manager Greenspan, will be more of a modification of what a small college schedule should be, although Penn and Navy still remain question marks upon the court schedule. The team still retains most of its veteran stellar players, and has one of the leading coaches of the country; with such it should be able to reassert itself in the schedule to come.

Golf 1932

Manager Armstrong, '33

THE team played its first match at the University of Delaware on Friday, April 15, and lost by a score of 6-3. Captain Lewis and Kim Hicks accounted for two of three points by wins in the twosomes, while Hicks and Ridgway took one of the three best ball foursomes.

Villanova on April 19, and Lafayette on April 22, were the teams next met and were both received on the home ground. Each had little trouble in walking over the Garnet to the tune of 5-1. The University of Pennsylvania was the next opponent and in this April 23rd match Swarthmore made a slightly better showing, returning with only a 4-2 defeat.

The Franklin and Marshall encounter on Friday, May 6, found the Swarthmoreans on the wrong end of a 6-0 score, which was repeated Saturday by the Penn State team.

Then the Garnet met Haverford on May 12 and although the Swarthmore team made a much better showing in this match than in the rest previously played, the Main Liners eked out a 5-4 victory. On May 28 the Home team was again forced to bow to victors, this time an Army team who won 6-3.

Men's Swimming

THIS year a group of men interested in the sport, reorganized the men's swimming team which had been non-existent for the past seven years. It is as yet officially unrecognized as a varsity sport, but in spite of this handicap the team was able to complete what, for its first year, may be called a successful season.

After three weeks of intensive practice under Coach Henry Parrish, the team started off against Upper Darby. The unfortunate disqualification of Klopp in the 150 yard back stroke lost the meet for the Garnet, 31-34. The Swarthmore team took four first places to Upper Darby's two; the second and third places were the home team's weakness.

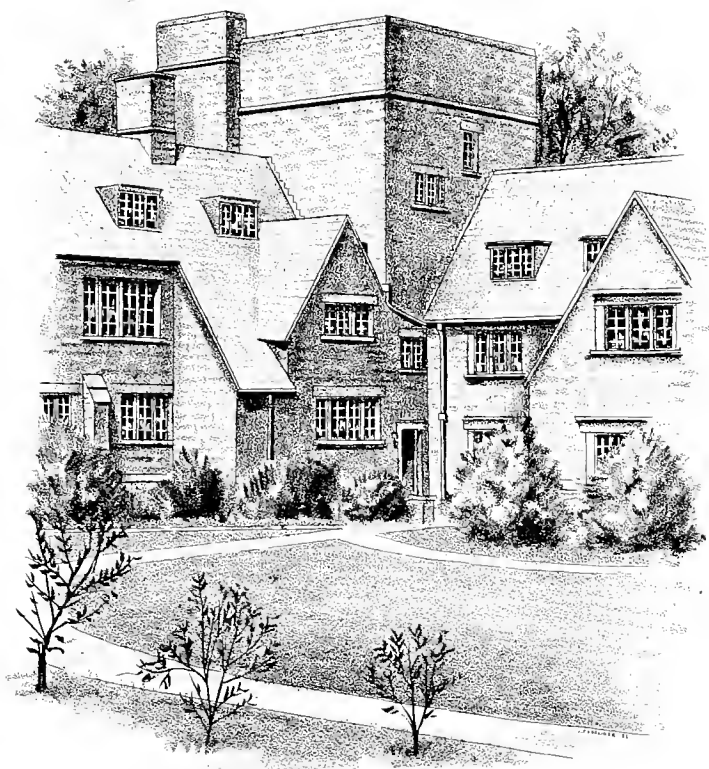

The next meet was lost to a strong Penn team, which took over the Garnet, 30-18. Johns Hopkins defaulted in the next meet to account for the season's only win. The last meet of the season was won by the Philadelphia Turngemeinde, 42-24. Jim Alburger, dash man, scoring the only first place for Swarthmore in the fifty yard free style.

Old English "S"

A BLAZER bearing the old English "S," the highest honor in women's athletics, is awarded at the end of the Junior year. To be eligible a girl must have at least thirty-five points after participation in three sports. From this list the girls who have shown the most interest and enthusiasm, the best ability and sportsmanship during the three years, are chosen by the previous wearers of the blazer and the Director and her Assistants. The members of the Class of 1933 to whom blazers were awarded are:

ALDYTHE LONGSHORE                      MARY LEGATE
NINA VOLKMAR

Beginning this year a gold block "S" will be awarded to anyone who has played on the Varsity team of one sport for four years. Mary Tomlinson received the honor for having played on the Varsity hockey squad for four years. Edith Jackson and Mary Legate received the award in swimming.

Hockey

Miss Rath
Athletic Director

THE Swarthmore women's hockey team completed the regular 1932 season without losing a game; five matches were won and two tied. Not for four years has a Swarthmore hockey team had an undefeated season. Individual playing was always up to standard and frequently brilliant, and the team as a whole was far better than in the past. Coach Mae Parry calls this year's "the best season we have ever had." The Garnet piled up thirty-four goals in all, and allowed their opponents to make but seven. Undoubtedly the additional training which the eleven received in September at Miss C. M. Appleby's hockey camp was a major factor in their success this year.

The opening game, with the Swarthmore Club on the home field on October 15, went to the Garnet by the wide margin of 6-0. Here the value of the pre-season practice was extremely noticeable; the team functioned well as a unit, and the forward line passes were especially successful. Credit for the goals goes to Mary Tomlinson, with one; to Charlotte Jones, the Freshman center-forward, with two; and to Louise Stubbs, whose stellar work as right inner was largely responsible for the victory, with three.

Swarthmore next met the Buccaneers, on October 22, and took this game in an easy stride, as the one-sided score of 12-1 indicates. The superior co-ordination of the Garnet manifested itself early in the play, and the end of the first half found the score, 6-0. Betty Cadbury, all-American left inner, and Sally Longstreth, former Bryn Mawr captain, then entered the struggle for the Buccaneers, but the remarkable defensive work of Captain Longshore and of Volkmar as fullbacks and Michael as goal prevented them from making more than one goal. Again Louise Stubbs was high scorer, tallying eight times altogether.

The 3-3 tie in the Merion Cricket Club game on October 29 indicates excellent work on the part of the Swarthmore eleven, for the Cricketers number several all-Philadelphia and all-American stars among their players, including Anne Page and Anne Townsend. During the first half the team was overconfident, and the opponents broke through the Garnet backfield three times. The second half found Swarthmore's defense far more efficient, and Mary Tomlinson deserves great credit for making the three goals that evened the score. The work of the college team in this game, in the face of formidable opposition, may easily be called the best of the season.

Galcyon

November 2 brought another Swarthmore victory, a 3-0 shutout of the Ursinus eleven. Early in the game Jean Walton, right wing, made the Garnet's initial tally after a long run down the field, and repeated the process in the second half. Mary Tomlinson, left inner, contributed the third goal, and Nina Volkmar's work was invaluable in the defense.

The Germantown Cricket Club match, on November 5, also went to Swarthmore, 4-1. All the Garnet goals were made in the first half, by Walton, Tomlinson, Jones, and Stubbs. In the second period Anne Parry scored for the opponents, who had played one man short in the first half. Again the defense co-operation of Harvey, Longshore, Volkmar, and Michael, was superb.

Unfortunately, the one game in which Swarthmore's hockey was perhaps not quite up to par was the traditional clash with Bryn Mawr on their field on November 12, which resulted in a 2-2 tie. The teams, rivals for ten years, had had very different records during the season, for Bryn Mawr had not yet won a game. The Garnet defense functioned well, as always, but the offensive play was less active. Stubbs scored two fine goals, however; and the talliers for Bryn Mawr were Captain Evelyn Remington and Josephine Taggart. Towards the end of the game the struggle became fast and furious, but the deadlock held.

The regular season closed on November 26, when the varsity defeated the Saturday Morning Club, 4-0. This game was rather an anti-climax, being slow, and easily the Garnet's. Jones and Tomlinson each made a goal, and Stubbs made two.

But the greatest opposition was yet to be faced. On November 28, the glorious and celestial aggregation of Greek gods avenged last year's defeat, and actually conquered the hitherto undefeated Varsity hockey eleven, to the tune of 1-0. The divine Greeks found the crude mortal rules a little upsetting at first, but in the second half their superior heavenly wisdom, power, and skill became apparent, and the mere girls were totally baffled. It was "Venus" Sipler, assisted by "Homer" Joyce, who made the fatal goal.

The importance of Miss Mae Parry's coaching and help as a cause of this highly successful season cannot be over-estimated. Captain Aldyth Longshore's fine leadership, and Ada Clement's efficient managership are also to be praised. Next year, Margaret Cresson will be captain, and Frances Lang manager.

Five letter women will be lost to the Garnet this year through graduation: Aldyth Longshore, captain, who has been an outstanding player; Mary Tomlinson, the only member who has held a position on the varsity for four years; Nina Volkmar, Nancy Harvey, and Arabel Jacquette, who have all rendered invaluable aid. This is a considerable loss, but the following Varsity members will still be available: Captain-elect Cresson, Stubbs, high scorer of the season; Walton, J. Harvey, Michael, Jones, and Hirst, and others of the squad who did not feature in this year's playing.

Swarthmore should feel very proud to have had four representatives on all-Philadelphia hockey teams this year: Mary Tomlinson, Nina Volkmar, Louise Stubbs, and Emma Michael.

Basketball

Miss Rath
Athletic Director

WITH three victories and four losses, the women's Varsity basketball team netted this season a record identical with that of last year. However, with but four letter women back at the beginning of the season, Miss Rath succeeded in producing a sextette whose teamwork improved constantly, as did individual play.

The Garnet opened with a victory over Drexel Institute on Saturday, February 11, by a 24-21 score. Drexel started the game, which was played under the revised old rules allowing guarding around, with a series of two-pointers and two fouls, bringing the score to 12-7 in the first quarter. At half time, however, the visitors boasted only a one-point lead. During the intermission the teams changed by mutual consent to the new rules of throw-in, by which each team's center alternately receives the ball from the referee, instead of jumping for it. This method made for much speedier playing and Swarthmore outshone Drexel from that time on, to lead by three points at the final whistle. Louise Stubbs was acclaimed high scorer for the Garnet with her seventeen points netted from seven two-point tosses and three fouls. Captain Nina Volkmar, who had been changed from center to forward during intermission was second, tallying five points.

The team met defeat at the hands of Rosemont College on February 18. The game opened with the new throw-up method in use, and almost immediately the visitors chalked up two points, giving them the lead, which they maintained throughout the major portion of the game. The score, which stood at 14-16 at half time, mounted rapidly and despite the excellent shooting done by Agnes Metcalfe and Louise Stubbs, forwards for the Garnet, the game ended with a 35-28 decision in favor of the visitors. Good passing and playing made the game a fast one, while the superior teamwork of the Rosemont team was largely responsible for their success.

Swarthmore won its second victory of the season on February 25, when they defeated the Alumnae by a 30-27 count, in spite of the visitors' final rally. Playing a fairly fast game, the Varsity used some new passing combinations to good advantage. The Alumnae, who scored six points early in the game, were soon tied down by the Varsity and held there for the rest of the half. Speeding up in the final quarter, the Alums gained the lead for a time, but were unable to hold it. The result was a three-point win for the Varsity. The high scorer of the struggle was Helen Seaman, '32, who made nineteen points. Stubbs, Geddes, and Volkmar played consistently well at forward.

Balcony

The Swarthmore sextette journeyed to Collegeville on March 3 to vanquish Ursinus in the most exciting game of the season. Setting a fast pace at the start, the home team led 5-1 at the end of the quarter, but the score was even at the half. After the intermission the Garnet gained a two-point lead, which they maintained until the final whistle, when the score stood 18-16. Despite the efforts of her opponent, who was one of the best defensive players encountered by Miss Rath's charges this year, Louise Stubbs managed to pile up fourteen points to establish herself as the individual star of the game.

Defeat again assailed the Garnet; this time it was at the hands of the Philadelphia Cricket Club on March 11. The final score stood 19-14. While the excellent guarding on both teams kept the score from mounting into the twenties, yet all the forwards had noticeable difficulty in shooting even when the opportunity came. At the half Swarthmore stood on the short end of a 9-2 tally, one which would have been less favorable had it not been for the careful guarding of Longshore. Fighting hard to overcome the Cricket Club's seven-point lead, the Garnet played a fast game that was tied at the end of the third quarter by Volkmar's foul shot. The last quarter attack by the opponents gained them the decision, in spite of Stubbs' two additional baskets.

On March 18 both the first and second teams met defeat at the hands of Bryn Mawr on the latter's court. The Varsity lost by a score of 32-15 and the second team by a 31-19 count. Although the Garnet played one of its fastest games, it was unable to furnish defense adequate to overcome the Main Liner's excellent teamwork. It was not until the second quarter that the Quaker Maids began to find the basket, and at this time it looked as though Longshore's guarding and Stubbs' basket tossing might even the score. However, the half ended with Bryn Mawr ahead, 28-8. During the third quarter the teams were again more evenly matched, but in the final period Bryn Mawr settled down to steady and fast playing which clinched their seventeen-point lead.

The final game of the season, a return engagement with Rosemont, was played on their court on March 24. The Garnet lost any chance to top off the season with a victory when the team was forced to bow to a faster and surer team to the tune of 48-23. The old system of jumping was employed for the first three quarters, but was discarded during the last period by agreement.

Aldyth Longshore and Gustina Croll, both of '33, made an excellent pair of guards who inspired the confidence of the whole team. Aldyth's playing was dependable and consistently good, and Gustina showed remarkable improvement over her work of last year. Captain Nina Volkmar played a difficult role during the season, for she was often called upon to shift between forward and center. Twice a shift from center to forward enabled her to shoot the winning goal. Louise Stubbs, captain-elect, was star forward and high scorer, although handicapped by the new guarding rules and her height. Agnes Metcalfe made occasional fine shots and was particularly brilliant in the first Rosemont game. Ida O'Neill stood out as a good jumper and did fine if somewhat erratic work as center. Toward the end of the season Sue Thomas, '35, was introduced as center, where she did some fine playing. Jeanne Curtis, '36, as substitute guard, showed promise of being Varsity material.

To Miss Rath, coach; Marcia Lamond, manager; and Eve Dotterer, assistant manager, go praise for a well-directed season. Although the tabulated results do not give evidence of a brilliant season. the games were well played and exciting, those with Rosemont and Bryn Mawr standing out particularly from the point of view of opposition. Stronger in guards than in forwards. the defense was consequently better than the attack. a fact for which the consistently low scores stand proof. Many of the games were characterized by Swarthmore's inability to make good on their scoring opportunities, but a fine spirit prevailed at all times.

Swimming

Miss Rath
Athletic Director

THE women's Varsity swimming schedule for 1933 was arranged to include more meets, especially with teams whose abilities are approximately those of Swarthmore, than has been the case in recent years. This made for a more interesting season, and although of the four meets whose final scores are available the Garnet had one win and three losses, this record should not necessarily be interpreted to mean an unsuccessful season. The team gained strength as a unit through increased competition, and individual work was for the most part good.

February 17 saw the first meet of the regular season, a 27-21 victory for the Garnet over Syracuse University. This was a telegraphic meet; both teams swam the same events at the same time in their respective pools, and the results were later compared. The high spot of this meet was the breaking of the Swarthmore pool record for the 160-yard relay. Georgia Heathcote, '35; Mary Ellen Wilcox, '36; Emma Michael, '35; and Edith Jackson, '33, finished this event in 1 minute 46.8 seconds, a drop from last year's low of 1 minute 48 seconds, made by Georgia Heathcote, Lydia Highley, Emma Michael, and Edith Jackson. The only other first place for the Garnet was Captain Jackson's in the 80-yard free style, but Swarthmore placed in every event. Edith Jackson and Emma Michael tied for second place in the 40-yard free style, and Nancy Gere and Mary Waddington for second in the 40-yard breast stroke; while Margaret Huntington came in second in the 40-yard back stroke, and Georgia Heathcote in the 80-yard free style. Since form swimming events cannot be included in a telegraphic meet, Beth Carver and Ruth Murray gave an exhibition of diving.

The second meet took place in the Swarthmore pool on February 25, against the Philadelphia Turngemeinde. As is indicated by the 42-14 score, the visitors manifested superiority in every event. Captain Edith Jackson placed third in both the 80-yard free style and the 40-yard free style, and Margaret Huntington third in the 40-yard back stroke; but the opponents, a stronger team, were able to win first and second places in all of these events. Swarthmore's best showing was made in the 40-yard breast stroke, when Janet Smith and Nina Volkmar finished second and third respectively. Handicapped by the absence of Mary Legate, the Garnet relay team, consisting of Emma Michael, Lydia Highley, Mary Waddington, and Edith Jackson, nevertheless performed creditably. The Turngemeinde, however, smashed a pool record by finishing in 1 minute 40.8 seconds. In the diving, Miss Melling of the Turngemeinde, was injured and was forced to retire; Emma Michael also retired to maintain even competition. The dives of Miss Haberle and Ruth Murray, '36, were beautifully executed. Miss Haberle won with a score of 62.8 over Ruth Murray's 61.5.

Garnet

It was a disappointment to the Garnet swimmers that the meet with Drexel, scheduled for late February, could not be held, due to the disbanding of the Drexel team.

The most thrilling meet of the season was the contest with Penn Hall, on March 11. The Penn Hall team has achieved remarkable success this season, defeating among other opponents the powerful N. Y. U. aggregation. The meet got off to a fast start when Louise Van Anglen, Penn Hall's star speed swimmer, clipped off the 80-yard free style in 51 seconds, taking first place and breaking the pool record. Dorothy Mann, of Penn Hall, took second place, and Georgia Heathcote, third. Mary Legate came in first in the 40-yard breast stroke and Janet Smith placed third. Penn Hall captured first and third places in the 40-yard back stroke, and Margaret Huntington came in second. A feature of the contest was the finish of the 40-yard free style, a tie between Dorothy Mann and Edith Jackson. Mary Legate brought in more points for her team by winning the crawl exhibition and tying for first place in the side and breast strokes for form. Ruth Murray, star Freshman diver, secured first place for the home team, and Emma Michael, third. A victory in the relay would have made it the Garnet's day. However, Louise Van Anglen's speed not only brought the Penn Hall swimmers in first, but caused the crash of the pool record made by the Turngemeinde the week before, the new time being 1 minute 40 seconds.

While preparing for the climax of the season, the clash with Bryn Mawr, which had to be postponed due to a quarantine at the other college, the Garnet swam off two telegraphic meets, the results of which cannot yet be obtained. On March 15 there was a telegraphic meet with George Washington University. Margaret Huntington and Edith Jackson did especially well in the back stroke and 40-yard free style. The relay time, too, was especially low: the reliable combination of Mary Legate, Georgia Heathcote, Emma Michael, and Edith Jackson made a time of 1 minute 41.5 seconds. On March 22 Swarthmore participated in the Eastern Intercollegiate meet, in which were also entered Bryn Mawr, Carnegie Tech, Syracuse University, and the University of West Virginia. The results of this multiple competition will be interesting, and Swarthmore was glad to be included.

Excitement ran high at the time of the Bryn Mawr meet, held in their pool on March 24, and marking the close of the season. The Yellow and Blue swimmers reversed the results of last year, and emerged the victors by a score of 48-36. Edith Jackson, swimming for the last time for the Garnet, broke the Bryn Mawr pool record in the 80-yard free style, which she won in 57.8. The relay team, consisting of Mary Legate, Emma Michael, Lydia Highley, and Edith Jackson, also secured first place. Mary Legate came in second in the 40-yard breast stroke, Margaret Huntington second in the 40-yard back stroke, and Lydia Highley and Emma Michael tied for second in the 40-yard free style. Ruth Murray placed third in the crawl for form. The Swarthmore medley relay, with Carol Keyes swimming the side stroke, Mary Waddington the trudgeon, Mary Legate the breast stroke, and Edith Jackson the crawl, lost to the opponents. Emma Michael gained second place in the diving competition.

The '33 season has been one of hard work and individual improvement on the part of the team members. Captain Edith Jackson's leadership, Miss Rath's fine coaching, and the managing abilities of Anne Bowley, '34, are prime factors in the successful season. Although the tabulated scores do not reveal astonishing success, the team has shown work of much higher quality than formerly, and this in the face of stiffer competition. Swimming as a major sport for women is becoming increasingly important. The greater number of meets and the increased attendance of spectators during this season aided such development, and it is expected that it will continue next year.

Unfortunately the Garnet will lose two leading members through graduation: Edith Jackson and Mary Legate, who captained the team in 1932. Fittingly enough, they tied for high scoring honors this season, each with 24<sup>3</sup>/<sub>4</sub> points to her credit. Emma Michael and Ruth Murray share second place with 15 points apiece. Margaret Huntington also made a fine showing with 12<sup>1</sup>/<sub>2</sub>.

The prospects for next year are good. Georgia Heathcote will be captain. Anne Bowley will continue as manager, and Caroline Butler will assist her. Captain-elect Heathcote and Emma Michael will be on hand to swim their fastest for the Garnet, and Lydia Highley and Janet Smith will continue their good work in the back stroke and breast stroke respectively. Ruth Murray and Emma Michael, reinforced by Beth Carver and Sarah Antrim, will develop their diving prowess. Kay Pennypacker has often helped out in the crawl, and Margaret Huntington has proved a real find in the back stroke. Several other Freshmen show promise: Mary Waddington, Mary Ellen Wilcox, Nancy Gere, and Carol Keyes.

Tennis

Miss Rath
Athletic Director

THE Swarthmore women's Varsity tennis team entered its fourth season in the spring of 1932. Miss Parry coached the squad, which was again captained by Helen Seaman. Mary Fisher was manager. Of the six matches scheduled four resulted in victories, but the season was, in general, more erratic than had been expected, some of the games being evenly matched and exciting, while others proved uneventful.

The first contest of the season took place on April 27 at Bryn Mawr, and resulted in a 4-1 defeat for the Garnet. Due to very unfavorable weather conditions the matches were rather uninteresting. Volkmar and Cresson succeeded in carrying their match into three sets, but Mary Tomlinson contributed the only Swarthmore victory.

On April 29 the team defeated Rosemont on the home courts by a score of 5-0. Since this was the first year the Rose and Gray had been organized they were at an obvious disadvantage. The most interesting and evenly matched game was between Helen Seaman and her opponent, the victory going to Seaman by an 8-6, 6-3 score. Louise Stubbs and Judith Smith continued their successful partnership of last year and easily vanquished their opponents by 6-1, 6-2 margins.

Another 5-0 victory was added when Swarthmore defeated Drexel on May 4. The players were in every case unevenly matched and the outcome was evident from the start. Mary Tomlinson proved her right to the first singles berth by a 6-3, 6-3 win and Captain Seaman overcame her opponent to the same tune. Stubbs and Smith, with an exhibit of brilliant team play, swept through their match without the loss of a single set, while Geddes turned in a 6-0, 6-1 victory.

May 10 the Swarthmoreans defeated the Beaver College racqueteers by a 3-2 score. Geddes brought home the only singles victory by a 6-3, 6-2 score, but both doubles teams were victorious.

The William and Mary matches on May 14 humbled the Garnet by a narrow margin of 3-2. The opponents won all three singles matches fairly easily, but the two doubles matches were won by Swarthmore after a hard fight, three sets being necessary in both cases.

The team brought its season to a close with a 3-2 victory over Ursinus on May 17. The first and second singles went to the faster players of the opposing team, but Geddes contributed a 6-2, 6-2 triumph. Cresson and Stubbs fought a tense match, and, making a spectacular comeback in the third set, triumphed by a 6-2, 8-10, 6-1 score. Sonneborn and Volkmar were the other victors. This contest marked the peak of the season due to steady stroking and beautiful, finished playing.

Helen Seaman brought her second season as captain to a successful close, playing a hard steady game throughout. Stubbs and Smith furnished most of the season's thrills with their swift doubles games, marked by excellent team work as well as by individual skill. Tomlinson kept her position as first singles with her steady, pounding play, and Geddes played an easy, unruffled game at third singles. Nina Volkmar, who will serve as manager next year, played her usual steady game, doubling sometimes with Doris Sonneborn and sometimes with Margaret Cresson, whose backhand scored many Garnet points.

Balcon

On the whole, the prospect for 1933 is bright. Helen Seaman was graduated and Judith Smith did not return, but the rest of the team will be available.

Varsity letters were awarded to Margaret Cresson, '34; Betsy Geddes, '34; Helen Seaman, '32 (captain); Judith Smith, '34; Doris Sonneborn, '35; Louise Stubbs, '34; Mary Tomlinson, '33; Mary Fisher, '32 (manager); and Nina Volkmar, '33 (assistant manager).

May Day

THE 1932 May Day was celebrated with ceremony in accordance with the Swarthmore custom. At an early hour the Freshmen stole quietly down to hang Maybaskets on the Senior women's doors. Later all the women gathered for the traditional step song. The Seniors passed, singing, down the Clothier steps and relinquished their places to the Juniors. Then all sang, "Where, Oh, Where, Are the Verdant Freshmen?" which placed each class a year ahead and constituted the Seniors' official good-bye.

In the afternoon old England held sway on the Worth quadrangle which was transformed into picturesque Nottingham village. Festivities began with a song and dance by the villagers, duly announced by Charlotte Kimball, the trumpeter. The worthy sheriff, Kathleen Burnett, arrived just in time to witness the formal entrance of the court and the May Queen, Anna Kurtz, '32. The Maypole winders, morris dancers, tumblers, and yeowomen strove to entertain Her Majesty, while the Queen's attendants, Marcia Lamond, '33; Yvonne Muser, '33; Lorraine Marshall, '34, and Betty Jones, '34, took part with the courtiers in a stately minuet. The climax was reached when Betty Hodges, '35, crowned the lovely Queen, and Robin Hood, Babette Schiller, '33, won the archery contest.

The Greek Gods' Game

THE Greek Gods avenged all past defeats when they assumed the role of victors in the 1932 hockey game with the women's varsity by the impressive score of 1-0. With a fierce fighting spirit the Gods descended with celestial yells on the scene of a struggle for which they had been determinedly in training for the whole preceding week.

Spectators gasped on sighting the sumptuous costumes with which the Gods were bedecked. Lengthy cigars, accessories which bolster up the spirit and increase the sense of superiority, were carried by the more dauntless warriors. For a time it seemed as though the mental prowess of the clever females was an equal match for the brawny heroes, and the half ended scoreless. Any discouraged deities were re-enheartened when requested to pose for admiring photographers during this period. When the shrill trumpets summoned the fighters back to the field of battle they seemed refreshed and at last Venus Sipler, the baby of the crew, came through with a startling but well-placed shot. From then on the contest revolved itself into a track meet engineered by the godlings to keep the women from any chance of a score, and the game ended with the proud maidens humbled and the challenged deities victorious. And so passed into history another classic battle. The superiority not only of the Gods over Mortals was shown, but also of the Men over Women, untried at this sport though they be.

As at the end of every Athletic writeup (athletic by permission of the copyright owners) much credit must be given to the manager—as we remember—Pluto, familiarly called "Water," Ludlow—or perhaps it was some one else. We really couldn't say. But anyway much credit is due him.

Arnica was supplied by Ruff, half-time refreshments by Miss Stilz, and this laughable writeup by one who is in the know.

Facts Every Swarthmoren Should Know

IT SEEMS fairly reasonable for us to make a few observations on the people who make scholastic events happen, namely, the great organization known as the Student Body. The author, being of a literal turn of mind, has therefore compiled a few statistics on this undergraduate phenomenon, its measurements, weight, etc., and offers them now for your edification.<sup>1</sup>

We have about us approximately 548 students, divided, sad as it may seem, into 257 men and 291 women. As for classes, we have 127 Seniors, 67 male and 60 female; 125 Juniors, 62 masculine and 63 feminine; 140 Sophomores, 65 boys and 75 girls; and 156 Freshmen, 63 gentlemen and 93 ladies.

Let us first consider the co-eds. We find that the Seniors average 20.4 years in age, 65 inches in height, and 123.9 pounds in weight. The Juniors range around 19.3 years, 64.9 inches, and 123.4 pounds. The Sophomore girl is apparently slighter in build, since the average height is the same as that of the Junior, but the weight almost a pound less. The average age is 18.5 years. Contrary to the impression obtained by a number of persons, i. e. that the Freshman girls are in general a pretty tall bunch, it would seem that their average height is 64.4 inches; that is, half an inch shorter than their nearest rivals. Also the typical Freshman girl is 17.4 years old and weighs 123 pounds.

Townsend Scudder, III, gives a restful lecture . . .

Incidentally, the shortest girl is a Freshman, the tallest a Junior, the lightest a Senior, and the heaviest—well, who cares, anyway?

Now the other side of the campus. We discover upon investigation that the average Senior man is 21.1 years old, weighs 149.4 pounds, and is 69.7 inches tall. The Juniors, on the contrary, are younger (strange!), taller, and lighter, their vital statistics being 19.7 years, 147.6 pounds, and 70 inches. And what is more, the Sophomores are still younger, taller, and lighter, averaging 18.6 years, 143.5 pounds, and 70.2 inches. But—the Freshmen can't compare. They average 17.6 years in age, 140.4 pounds in weight, and 67.7 inches in height.

<sup>1</sup>Note: The writer wishes to make it quite clear that this compilation has been conducted quite independently of all deans' offices and such—in other words, the figures to follow came to light by dint of much counting in catalogues, gym files, etc. Said writer being not much in the way of a counter, figured a different number of people in college by every calculation. Result, figures slightly inaccurate due to the human element in the problem. They may be safely said, however, to represent the general trend.

Aldy: "Well, forty years ago . . ."

Observation of maxima and minima leads us to the conclusion that the tallest boy is a Junior, the shortest a Freshman, the heaviest a Senior, and the lightest a Freshman.

Next we proceed to an analysis of the classes unsegregated as to sex. It turns out that the Seniors are the heaviest, the Sophomores the tallest, and the Seniors, both relatively and absolutely, the oldest. It's this way: Seniors, 20.8 years, 136.6 pounds, 67.3 inches; Juniors, 19.5 years, 135.5 pounds, 67.4 inches; Sophomores, 18.5 years, 133 pounds, 67.5 inches; Freshmen, 17.5 years, 131 pounds, and 66 inches.

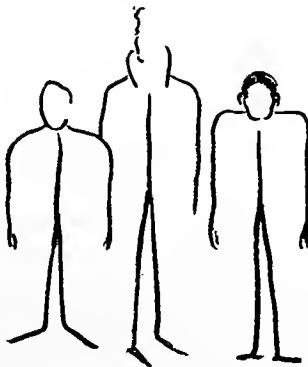

So be it—and on to coloring. Let us begin with the co-eds again. It seems that the Senior women are 38% blondes, 58% brunettes, and 4% redheads.<sup>2</sup> The Junior girls have a higher percentage of blondes—44%, with 56% brunettes, and no redheads. The Sophomores are even more impartial—they show 48% of both dark and light, and 4% redheads. But the Freshmen . . . . .! Your suspicions were right. They are 52% blondes, 43% brunettes, and 5% redheads. And, incidentally, seeing as how there are considerable more Freshmen than anything else, 52% means more "gals" here than it would in any other class.<sup>3</sup>

Now the men again. Our data shows that 42% of the Seniors are blondes, 54% brunettes, and 4% redheads. The Juniors seem to be dark men coming into our lives (so to speak)—they are 63% brunettes, 35% blondes, and

Arthur "The Great" Ogden

2% redheads. The Sophomores show pretty much the same distribution as the Juniors—36% blondes, 62% brunettes, and 2% carrot tops. Even the Freshmen don't vary much from their elders' example. They run 35% blondes, 60% brunettes, and 5%—shall we say auburn?

Messrs. Garrett, MacNeille, and Greenspan (left to right, please).

Still more percentages! Next we take the 548 persons in question, class by class, mixed company. The Seniors show 40% blondes, 56% brunettes. The Juniors offer 40% light, 59% dark. The Sophomores are 43% light and 54% dark, and the Freshmen are 45% and 50%, blonde and brunette, respectively. Outside of these, the whole college is redheaded.

Now that we are all neatly pigeon-holed and <sup>2</sup>The reader may have noticed that there are wide differences of opinion as to what constitutes a blonde or a brunette. Consequently, we admit freely that these figures merely represent our own personal ideas on the subject.

<sup>3</sup>Does a comparison of these figures mean that blondes in general give up college earlier than brunettes?

cross-catalogued and so on, suppose we take the average Swarthmore woman and see what she's like: age, 18.8 years; height, 64.8 inches; weight, 123.2 pounds;<sup>4</sup> coloring, take your choice. There is almost an even chance of her being light or dark, with a very slight margin in favor of the brunettes.

The average Swarthmore man is something like this: age, 19.2 years; height, 69.4 inches; weight, 145.2 pounds;<sup>5</sup> coloring, probably dark—the chances are about 3 to 2 for the brunettes.

Well, there's the data. What conclusions can we draw from it?

1. Slight undernourishment is prevalent, due to extreme mental activity and practically no sleep.
2. We have a great little bunch here.<sup>6</sup>

Dr. Aydelotte
explains.

Fourth East is mostly Freshmen.
Sophomores here and there.
Interests range from Math to Curly here.

I Section is quite empty
Till eleven nites.
For Mrs. Mac's best table
Up two flites.

J Section has a parlor.
Often full of males.
J Section's also known for
Its milk pales.

K Section's quite important.
Not one at which to scoph
Socially it's busy, but
All paired oph.

"De Lawd"
Bob Schembs.

Two lone Seniors here.
That place that wicked Parrishites
Find most dere.

M Section's widely noted for
Its crushes, screams and tea.
But the second floor is only
One of threa.

N Section's top is jammed with Visitors and smoke.
The rest of it's the scene of that Salesman joke.

Vibe—Section (2)

A Section is extremely
Versatile, you know.
Runners, writers and a
Big banjow.

B Section's full of Freshmen.
North Wing's affinity.
Mixed tables fill them with the Greatest gly.

"Biff" enters the dining room.

C Section's widely known as Campus Comment's best.
Their Italian leaves us
Most imprest.

D Section has the ladies
Falling thick and fast.
For Garnet "S's" they can't
Be surpast.

E Section houses ratters of Almost every kind.
New York, the South, and Cos Cob
There combind.

F Section must be perfect.
How can they bear to roam?
Improvements, like charity,
Start at hoam.

EXCELLENCE

"Excellence is not a mantle put around our shoulders by destiny. It is something attained by thought and act."

PUMUNANGWET
(He Who Shoots the Stars)

... who dares to attempt even the unattainable with the conscious pride of an unconquerable spirit.

Excellence in Annuals is attained. There is something a book has, or does not have—and the “ability” to know what to do to make a book different and distinctive—is something you cannot buy indiscriminately at any price.

When a Staff places their Annual in our hands, they immediately have at their disposal a service that is truly exceptional and complete. We look beyond the dotted line of the contract to broader horizons. Your problem becomes ours. Our resources of experience and facilities become yours.

Our cumulative knowledge of years in this line of work is applied understandingly and sympathetically to your specific aims. Cost is held to a figure in sensible proportion to the result to be accomplished.

Back of our organization is the spirit of “He Who Shoots the Stars”—vision—ambition—confidence—strength—and with the Staff catching this spirit along with us, the result will be an Annual which can be passed on to your Classmates with pride.
